RURAL SCHOOL MANSE IS URGED

Solution Offered for Country School Problem Which Is Now Subject of Interest in Wisconsin

A plea for co-operation—between women, between men and women, between husbands and their families, in the nation as a great unit—was voiced by Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, at her address last night in the La Crosse Theater, which marked the high point of the Wisconsin State Federation of Women's Clubs convention.

Another Picture of Mrs. Pennybacker

ation of Women's clubs convention. "What do we need to be efficient?" asked the "little corporal" of the women's clubs. And carefully she pointed out the things that are to be done whereby women can make their organizations powerful forces. In conclusion Mrs. Pennybacker offered and demonstrated a solution for the rural school problem now occupying so much attention in Wisconsin.

Theater Filled
It was 8:45 when Mrs. Kinsman introduced Mrs. Pennybacker. For half an hour the theater had been filled almost to capacity. At 7:45 the lobby was crowded out to the street door with women and their escorts, and it was after 8 o'clock before the audience was seated.

Miss Lute Stearns, member of the executive board of the general federation, preceded Mrs. Pennybacker with a short and witty report of the off-year council of the federation's leaders, held this year at Portland, Oregon. Miss Stearns made much of Portland's uses, for the council was held just at the time of the "Rose Carnival."

"The memory of the odor of those roses lingers with me yet," she said. "Every vase, vase and vase we could find was filled with them. Pitchers, washbowls, bathtubs—we positively became unsanitary to find what to do with those luscious roses."

The peace address given by "that superman," Dr. David Starr Jordan, was briefly noted, as being "a thousand years ahead of its time," and other speakers before the council were mentioned.

The council considered the question of the what-in-the-world-shall-I-do? alternates at the biennial convention. Miss Stearns added, with a

DROP FIGHT TO CHANGE YEAR

Milwaukee Agrees to the Change by Which Standing Committees Are to Be Appointed in Odd Years

"I declare the nineteenth annual convention adjourned and henceforth only a beautiful memory." A rap of President Mrs. D. O. Kinsman's gavel at the conclusion of the above formula at 12:15 this afternoon brought to a close the annual convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs, after a rushing session in which all business before the convention was dispatched with a minimum of delay. Harmony reigned for the most part. There was no opposition in the adoption of sweeping changes in election methods which were expected to bring a fiery debate, and the other business before the convention went through with scarcely any opposition.

Peace resolutions, as reported in The TRIBUNE last night, were adopted without a dissenting voice. Other resolutions adopted urged a censorship of shows on the "pike" at the Milwaukee state fair, ask that the state fair grounds be utilized as an all-year-round public playground; that the results of the federal industrial commission's investigation of the causes of industrial unrest be printed and distributed free of charge; that the results of the state recreation survey be published; that clubwomen join in the collection and dispatch of materials for use in European war hospitals; that the federation join with the child welfare bureau in employing a rural visiting nurse to instruct mothers in prenatal care; and that the next convention call sent out be accompanied by a proposed amendment to the constitution changing the name of the federation to the "Wisconsin Federation of Clubs."

The last mentioned resolution was proposed by Miss Lute Stearns of Milwaukee. She said that a number of clubs of mixed male and female membership were anxious to join the federation, but that they did not care to join so long as the name of the federation implies that it is limited strictly to women members. Mrs. R. H. Roberts of Portage suggested that the resolution be amended to demand that representation of the member clubs be solely by women, but when Miss Stearns explained that the object of the resolution was only to get the suggestion before the clubs, Mrs. Roberts withdrew her amendment.

Adopt Election Changes
The recommendations of the committee appointed to suggest changes in the election methods were adopted entire. The Milwaukee delegation, through Mrs. Rossiter Lines, attempted to amend them to change the election from the even years to the odd ones. Mrs. John A. Aylward of Madison led the opposition to the suggestion, urging that the election year was now the same as that of the general federation, and declaring that the present arrangement had the endorsement of Mrs. Pennybacker and other general federation officials. Mrs. Lines explained that her amendment was intended to allow the legislative committee a year in office to become familiar with its work before appearing before the state legislature for and against bills touching upon matters in which the women of the state are interested. A substitute amendment providing that the executive board appoint the standing committees in odd years was introduced by Miss Lute Stearns and passed, and with the matter thus arranged to get around the difficulty, Mrs. Lines withdrew her suggestion.

Mrs. W. D. Brooks of Green Lake, was almost the only person who objected to the new election methods.

BULGAR MINISTER IN SERB CAPITAL HANDED PASSPORTS

RUSS ATTACK BULGARIAN PORT

Town of Varna Is Bombarded by Two Russian Cruisers; Greece Is Neutral

NISH, Oct. 8.—The Bulgarian minister received his passports today. A declaration of war was deemed a matter of hours.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Two Russian cruisers are actively bombarding the Bulgarian port of Varna, according to a dispatch from Amsterdam.

Varna, on the Black Sea, is the principal port of Bulgaria. It has only an open roadstead, but affords good anchorage.

The city, which has a population of about 25,000, has important railroad connections and is an industrial center.

Sofia Issues Manifesto
BERLIN, via Sayville, L. I., Oct. 8.—Bulgaria has joined the Teutonic allies because only thus can all Bulgarian peoples be united, according to a manifesto issued by the Sofia government, published today in the Frankfurter Zeitung.

For her aid, continues the manifesto, Bulgaria has Germany's and Austria's promise of parts of Serbia, giving the Bulgarians a frontier with Hungary, an absolute necessity, it is declared, to Bulgarian independence.

The allies' pledges, says the statement, were disbelieved.

Russia is denounced by the manifesto as seeking to win Constantinople and the Dardanelles, Great Britain as aiming at destruction of German competition, France as hoping for Alsace-Lorraine, and the other allied powers as planning to "rob foreign countries" while Germany and Austria are upheld as defenders of property and peaceful progress.

Serbia is declared Bulgaria's worst enemy and is accused of oppressing "purely Bulgarian Macedonia with unheard of barbarism."

The Teutonic allies, adds the manifesto, are victorious on all fronts and it would be suicidal for Bulgaria not to be found on the German and Austrian side.

The three Austro-German invasions of Serbia are progressing satisfactorily, it was announced officially today. Southwest of Belgrade several hundred captures were made it was stated.

Constantine for Neutrality

ATHENS, Oct. 8.—The Greek government decided today to declare the Greek attitude one of benevolent neutrality toward the allies.

The king declared he intended no conflict with any belligerent.

The Greco-Serbian treaty of 1913, he said, does not oblige Greece to aid Serbia under present circumstances.

The new cabinet was sworn in today.

WINONA SHERIFF GETS THIEF HERE

Sheriff George Parr of Winona came to La Crosse today to arrest Henry Schultz, the man who told La Crosse police he was from Sixteenth street, Waukon Junction, Iowa, when arrested for trying to sell a shotgun and three gold watches. Waukon Junction has a population of about twenty-five. Sheriff Parr says that Schultz stole the gun and watches in Winona.

TAX BUDGET TO COUNCIL TONIGHT

The annual tax budget will be presented to the council tonight when that body meets in regular session. The budget will be referred and will be acted on at the November meeting.

SNOW USHERS IN OLD KING WINTER

Mr. Chilly Winter made his debut into La Crosse early this morning with a light flurry of snow flakes and a temperature which called for mufflers and heavy clothing. There were none to greet him, the general populace holding out the hope that his visit would be followed by that of Mr. Indian Summer, always a welcome guest in La Crosse at this season of the year.

GENERAL KING TO TALK AT LA CROSSE THEATER TONIGHT

Inspector of Wisconsin National Guard and America's Greatest Soldier to Speak on "National Defense"

BEGAN SERVICE AS DRUMMER BOY

General King Was a Guide Through Virginia in Campaign Against South with Gen. Winnifred Scott

The stage is set for the address tonight of one of America's greatest living soldiers, General Charles King, inspector general of the Wisconsin National Guard. He will speak at the La Crosse Theater at 8 o'clock on "National Defense." The theater will be free to the public. General King is being brought to La Crosse by Companies M and B of the local militia, who are standing the expenses of the engagement.

General King is sixty-eight years old, although his face is as strong and buoyant as that of a youth.

General King's first plunge into soldier life was made when a lad of sixteen years. He was attending college at New York City when the world was startled by the guns at Fort Sumter. His college work was forgotten and a few days later he was found in the camp of the Wisconsin volunteers at Washington. He entered the army as a drummer boy. President Lincoln appointed him to West Point in 1862.

Until 1866, General King remained at West Point as instructor of artillery. In 1871, General King was appointed aide-de-camp to General Emory and placed in Troop K of the Fifth cavalry, which was then being removed from Fort D. A. Russell in Wyoming to Arizona. For a long time General King was engaged in Indian wars on the western border of civilization.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—Grover Cleveland Alexander did the expected this afternoon and downed the Boston Red Sox in the first game of the title series, 3 to 1. The big Ne-raskan never pitched a better game in some respects. Boston batters were on base in every inning, but each time Alexander tightened up and pulled himself through by his own good efforts. Stock scored the winning run in the eighth. He started with a walk, was sent to second by Bancroft's single and both moved up when Shore also passed Paskert. Cravath binged to the infield. Scott was a bit slow in fielding and Stock came home. Cravath, however, was caught at first.

Luderus scratched a single next, scoring Bancroft.

Shore lost a tough luck game. The breaks at all times favored the Phils. Several times what should have been easy outs went for hits because of the slippery field. Shore allowed the Phils only five hits, whereas Alexander was touched for eight, one in each inning.

The Phils got away to a one run lead in the fourth. Paskert led off with a single, was sacrificed to second by Cravath, sent to third on Luderus' infield out, and scored when Whitted tied it up in its half of the eighth. After Scott had died, Speaker walked on four pitched balls, went to second on Hobby's infield out and scored when Duffy Lewis laid a screaming single almost against the left field wall.

Alexander struck out six men, making Lewis whiff the air twice. Shore's strikeouts totaled four.

Lewis Best Hitter
The batting honors for the day went to Lewis, with two singles. Not an extra base hit was recorded during the game and several of the hits were scratches. Boston's Royal Rooters, refusing to be downhearted, swept down on the field as Hooper made the last out of the game, and paraded around the field to the tune of Boston's famous war song "Tessie." Manager Carrigan made a list-ditch effort to tie up the score in the ninth. He inserted two pinch hitters, but Alexander with the first game under his belt tightened up and they died easily.

The play by innings:
BOSTON—Hooper up. Ball one. Hooper singled. Scott up. Strike one called. Scott sacrificed. Alexander called.

LIQUOR MEN HOPE FOR FLARE BACK IN CLOSING ORDER

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—The United societies and other liquor dealers' associations will help make Chicago absolutely dry next Sunday. It was made known today by the liquor interests that they would bend their energies toward that object on the theory that they will "shake Chicago what a dry Sunday is like" in the hope that Mayor Thompson's now famous closing edict will prove a flare back.

It developed today that it was not political opponents of Mayor Thompson who canvassed the grand jury with the idea of securing indictments charging impeachment against municipal officials who did not enforce the state Sunday closing law.

FOUND DEAD IN BATH TUB

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 8.—Lying in a bathtub filled with scalding water, the body of Mrs. Priscilla J. Crowinshield of Marblehead, was found in a room of the Parker house early today by attaches of the hotel.

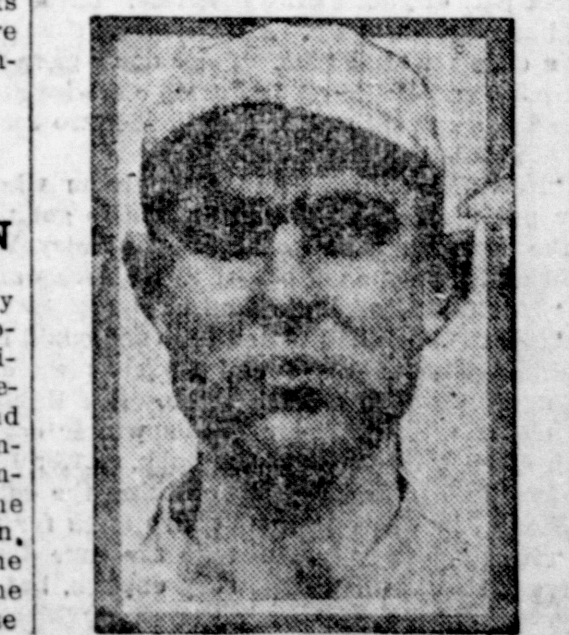

The dead woman is the wife of Bowdoin B. Crowinshield, prominent Boston clubman, naval architect of national reputation, and member of the Back Bay family of that name.

AUTO TOUR STOPS HERE WHEN POLICE ARREST ROBBERS

An automobile cross-country jaunt of John E. Chamberlain and Victor S. Carlson, Minneapolis, was rudely interrupted here this morning when local police arrested them upon the request of the sheriff of Hennepin county and the chief of police of Minneapolis. The men were driving a rebuilt Ford and were about to leave the city on their way to Chicago after filling their "gas" tanks when arrested. It is believed they are wanted in the Twin Cities for highway robbery.

NATIONAL DEFENSE PLAN IS CHEAP SAYS GARRISON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Secretary of War Garrison, it was learned today, has finally submitted to President Wilson his plan for national defense as it applies to the army—and it proves to be surprisingly inexpensive. His recommendations are understood to include an increase of the standing army by about 20,000 men, reorganization of the militia and the creation of a reserve, increase of the field artillery corps and an increase of reserve ammunition.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

WHAT WILL JACK SAY

BY ELLIS GRAY

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate)
Bob Hale's head was so full of pain that in his delirium he was afraid it would burst and scatter his brains over the snowy uniform of his nurse. That would have been dreadful, for not for worlds would he have anything happen to the lady, immaculate bit of femininity who was taking care of him.

One other thing worried him besides his head. It was the diamond ring his nurse wore on her left hand. To his distorted senses it seemed to be intolerably in the way. If she would only put it on the other hand it wouldn't bother him so much.

Day after day, while the fever lasted, the ring on Miss Larimar's third finger tormented him dreadfully. Then one day the fever broke, but although the pain disappeared from his head, the ring and all it implied remained to torture him. A new pain had developed around the region of his heart.

"Won't you tell me who the lucky man is?" he asked one day as he lay back weakly among his pillows watching her make out a report for the doctor.

"What do you mean?" she asked, looking up startled from her writing. Then, seeing his eyes on her hand, she colored. "Not—not now," she faltered. "Some day, perhaps. Don't you think you had better have your nap now, Mr. Hale?"

Bob pretended to sleep, but the pain in his heart got worse and interfered with his rest. Why had the hospital sent Violet Larimar to nurse him if she had to be engaged to somebody else? It wasn't fair to a poor, sick, defenseless man to have this avalanche of beauty and sweetness descend upon him and then to discover that she belonged to another.

Bob got better. And Violet, one dreary day, exchanged her white uniform for a blue broadcloth suit and departed, taking with her all that life held dear for him.

For weeks Bob thought of every excuse under the sun to see her. But he always gave up in despair. There was no honorable way he could think of. Besides, what was the use when she was lost, and never could be, for him?

One day he lost a collar pup, and, looking over the ads in a daily paper, found the following item right under his nose.

LOST—A solitary diamond ring on a Bellevue car or on Washington avenue, Bellevue. Finder will please return to Miss Violet Larimar, 129 Washington avenue, and receive liberal reward.

"Eureka, I have found it!" exclaimed Bob, meaning, of course, neither the ring nor the dog, but an excuse to see once more the only girl he could ever care for.

The plan that presented itself so suddenly was this: To try to find the ring. At least to intercept the finder, and hereby return it in person. Anyway, to try. It was the only legitimate excuse he could possibly trump up for seeing her once more. "Then I'm going to pack up and go to Argentina."

Bob boarded a Bellevue car immediately. First he interviewed the conductor and the motorman, but with no success. Next came a thorough search of floor gratings and seat cushions. Passengers were asked kindly to move over, back or forward as the case might be, in order to facilitate the search. But the ring did not appear.

Bob got off at Washington street and immediately glued his eyes to the ground, not daring to miss an inch of the trail. After going four blocks he stopped in front of an old house set well back among the trees. It was the Larimar house, he knew. No use going farther. He crossed the street and went back the four blocks to the car line on the other side. No diamond ring happened to be lying on the sidewalk waiting to be picked up! Back again to the house.

He slipped through the street gate set in a high privet hedge. Just inside was a clump of hydrangeas on a level with his head. He could stand there unseen from street and house and intercept any one who looked as though he or she were coming to return a lost diamond.

"It's a beautiful fix to be in, playing detective to get another fellow's ring for the girl I love," Bob admitted. "But it's the only way I can see her!"

Suddenly he heard voices coming down the path from the house. He stepped back among the shrubs until the people should pass, when he heard Violet exclaim: "Let us sit here on the bench, father, and wait for five minutes and I'm so afraid of missing some one who might come to return dear Jack's ring."

Then she began to cry. "It's dreadful to lose it. I just loved it!" Bob felt queer. If Violet loved the other fellow like that, what use was there for him to try to see her anyway? He was not proud of the part he was playing. He decided that as soon as Violet and her father departed he would leave the place forever.

But, as fate would have it, just as soon as Bob gave up the idea of finding the ring the ring found him. He didn't know it, of course, when he picked up the soggy rag doll that had lain out all night under the bushes, but, turning it over, he discovered something on a piece of string around the doll's neck. It was Violet's engagement ring, the ring her beloved Jack had given her! Some child at the house had evidently confiscated the gem for a pendant and then forgotten it.

Bob slipped dolly's finery into his pocket and waited for the occupants of the bench to depart. It would scarcely do for him to rush out from his retreat and present the lady with her ring. There was no explanation he could make.

That evening he called her on the telephone.

"Hello!" came Violet Larimar's sweet quiet voice in answer.

"Good evening, Miss Larimar," Bob replied as evenly as he could. "This is Robert Hale. Do you remember me?"

"Indeed, yes!" came back in surprised tones. "I could hardly have forgotten you so soon, Mr. Hale."

"I saw your advertisement in the paper and have the pleasure of informing you that I have found a diamond ring which may be yours. I am sending it to you by registered mail."

He said it as formally as possible, wondering if the transmitter would convey the hammering of his heart.

"How perfectly grand! I'll be so glad to get it back. If it really is mine. But can't you bring it out? Why send it? Would it be very much trouble?"

Was he dreaming, or were her words a trifle wistful?

"Why, yes! That is, thank you very much, but you see—I mean, what would Jack say?"

"Yes, Jack, who gave you the ring?"

Silence for an instant, then peals of merry laughter. "Jack is my brother, my sailor brother. Really, he won't care if you come to see me, Mr. Hale."

Bob gasped. "But you wore it on your engagement finger!"

"We girls often do that to scare off men patients who are apt to think they are in love with their nurses. It saves so much trouble."

"I'll be out in twenty minutes," answered Bob.

ASSAYING CHARGE REDUCED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Secretary McAdoo announced today that the assay offices in Seattle, Boise, Helena, Deadwood, and Salt Lake City, and the mints in Philadelphia, New Orleans and Carson City have been directed to reduce the charge for assaying to $1 for each metal found. The government charge has been $3 and private firms got all the business at $1.

ARCHDUCHESS AIDS AUSTRIAN SOLDIERS

VIENNA, Oct. 8.—The Austrian newspapers speak in warm praise of the Samaritan labors of the Grand Duchess Marie Therese, known in the hospitals as Sister Michaela. The grand duchess is the stepmother of the murdered heir apparent, Grand Duke Franz Ferdinand. The grand duchess, who is a Portuguese princess by birth, is 60 years old. Sister Michaela is very active and does many kinds of work in the hospital, working until a late hour at night. She has charge of the instruments and offers them to the doctors on making an operation. She is indomitable in her work and by her patience and kindness has won the hearts of the wounded soldiers. She knows all her patients and as a result one day when the Austrian emperor visited the hospital was able to give particulars regarding each of them. "This is Franz Hinterhuber from St. Poelten, your majesty," she said. "He has a wife and five children. He is a carpenter with a small house. He received a shot in the leg, but he is getting better. Is it not true, Franz?" Once in the middle of the night an operation was performed on an appendicitis patient. The grand duchess left her palace to be near the sick man. The grand duchess objects to the title of "highness" and desires only to be called "Sister Michaela."

You never can tell. Many a man boasts of his family tree who isn't up in the higher branches.

SELF GOVERNMENT IN POLISH CITIES

BERLIN, Oct. 8.—Under Russian rule the Polish cities were governed by a mayor appointed by the Russian government, and the citizen had nothing to say regarding local affairs. At present the Polish cities occupied by the Germans have the same system of home rule as is enjoyed by German municipalities.

Rheumatic Fever

In the treatment of Rheumatic Fever many physicians employ purgatives, but Dr. M. F. Reed thinks that a mild laxative is better. When the patient is bilious he gives calomel in small doses, one-fifth of a grain every hour until a grain has been taken. Then after four hours he gives the patient a half ounce of citrate of magnesia, with syrup of lemon to disguise the taste, or he keeps the bowels open with the mild laxative "Aptoids." The diet should be light, and all animal food should be excluded as far as possible from the diet. For the pain and fever he has found nothing equal to Anti-Kamnia Tablets, giving two tablets every 2 to 3 hours as required. These in any quantity desired. Ask for A-K Tablets. Unexcelled for Headaches, Neuralgias, and All Pain.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

How the Kiddies' Squirrel Got A Blanket.

They Made the Nicest Home For the Squirrel.

THE children curled up beside daddy, for it was Bibbley Wah night, and they were eager.

"One fall, just as the leaves were beginning to turn colors, Bobbie and Jim set traps for animals," daddy started.

"Once they set a trap for a woodchuck. And guess what they got?"

"A hen, a dog, a rabbit!" cried the kiddies.

"No. They caught Bibbley Wah. But she had on such strong shoes that it did not hurt her. She was tumbling around in the boys' way and stepped right into the trap."

"Well, Bobbie made a queer looking box that he said was just the thing to catch partridges, but when Jim dashed down the hill one morning to see that nothing had sprung the trap he found in it probably the prettiest catch that children ever had."

"What?" asked the kiddies.

"A pair of young gray squirrels. If the boys had tried all winter they could not have done it again. All their play time for the next month they spent making a cage for their pets. Their uncle gave them two boxes for a parlor and a bedroom, and Bobbie found some old wire and nails. They bored, sawed, hammered and cut till at last they made two rooms connected with a wheel where the squirrels could run."

"Now the children had a playroom where they did as they pleased. So they put the cage in it and started to get nuts for winter. The kiddies slept in the next room, and once after Bibbley Wah's mother had kissed her good night and gone she got one of the squirrels and took it to bed with her."

"Would it bite her?" asked Evelyn.

"No; the boys had tamed it so she could handle it. The next morning when Bobbie fed his pets he found a queer piece of blue cloth in the cage and could not understand how it got there. But Bobbie's mother knew. She looked in the closet where Bibbley Wah's winter coat hung and found a big piece of cloth chewed right out of the back. After Bibbley Wah had gone to sleep Mr. Squirrel had gone exploring. Liking the color of his playmate's coat, he had snipped out a piece with his sharp teeth for his own bed blanket."

"Then the boys had to take the cage down to a shed beyond the kitchen where it stayed all winter, cozy enough, but not so convenient to coats as the playroom was."

"Thank you, daddy," cried the children, with a huz.

MRS. PENNYBACKER
CONVINCES

Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, the big little woman who heads the National Federation of Women's Clubs, while somewhat a creature of emotion, has a more practical idealism than that of Prof. Charles Zueblin, the previous evening's speaker.

Mrs. Pennybacker's message dealt with the rural schools and her appeal carried conviction not entirely due to the immediacy of her eloquence.

Consolidated schools—districts joined to support better equipment
—and a country school manse for the teacher form her solution. Put just that way, in the rough, the idea has a visionary sound in which the echo of outcries against the "tax-eaters" blurs the vision. But the climber was that German colonies are doing it, that the state of Washington is doing it, and that not in a single case has the plan proved a failure.

To Mrs. Pennybacker's address, a stenographic copy of which appears in this paper, we refer those who are interested in an elaboration of the subject. Even divested of the earnest and eloquent conviction of the speaker, the plain words sustain the proposal.

We positively believe that herein lies the solution of the gravest problem now agitating Wisconsin—
how to make the rural school efficient.

ROMANCE AND POLITICS

Because he had warily avoided the question, people sat up and took notice when last Tuesday President Wilson, with states-rights limitations, announced that he would vote for women's suffrage in New Jersey.
They sat up and took more notice
the following day when the president announced his engagement to a pretty widow of means and other charms. Who'll ever know the connection between the two incidents?

Perhaps it was sentiment, perhaps even it was a trade. At least the president has no right to expect that while he joins one and one the rest of the world will not put two and two together.

The ethical side of the not belated announcement we have no disposition to discuss. The conventional year of freedom having been enjoyed the suggestion of hastiness is at least formally barred. However, we doubt if his latest achievement is President Wilson's wisest political move, a fact that might be doubly demonstrated could the president's advocacy of women's suffrage bear national fruit e'er one year from November.

Now is the time for all good women to come to the aid of the party.

A SPECIAL PRIVILEGE

Could any two men have hewed to the subject better, talked stricter common sense, employed more concise language, exhausted the subject better or cut the theme shorter than did Mrs. Pennybacker and Miss Stearns last night? Humor, pathos, power characterized the speeches in well balanced proportion. Almost fit to vote, some gentlemen will concede—"on school questions."

Mrs. Pennybacker failed to specify whether "co-operation of husband and wife" should extend to the furnace.

SOME OF US DID
A LORDLY SQUIRM

We confess a quite personal feeling that Mrs. Pennybacker's appeal to fathers not to shirk the responsibility for the guidance of his children by shifting the whole burden upon his wife, was not the least important topic broached in her able address last evening.

We entertain an equally positive notion that the personal intimacy between father and son, which she urged, is more important than parental advice, suggestion and command. We do not recall a case where a good father and his child were "pals" in which the child went far astray.

A pleasant college recollection is that of a La Crosse boy who, upon receiving from his father a letter which always contained a number of generous checks, used eagerly to read the friendly epistle without pausing to note the size of the remittance. That boy was peculiarly subjected to temptation, for his means were ample and his freedom unhampered. He never spent all of his allowance and today he is one of the city's leading business men.

After years of married life how does the optimism of federated matrons rise to visions of universal peace?

FACE!

A street car conductor has discovered an evidence of women's failure to attain that measure of man's estate essential to intelligent use of the ballot. Of eleven delegates who alighted from his car at the Congregational church on a single trip, ten got off backwards.

Of all sad words of tongue or pen
The saddest are, "We can't be men."

THE LUCK OF WATERTOWN

We stifle our impulse to protest and, instead, generously congratu-

That enterprising city is fortunate in having attracted to its doors
a young man in whom we have had much pride. Ralph J. Toland will give Watertown a first class commercial school, for he is a first class business educator; in doing that, he is giving Watertown a citizen who will win confidence and esteem.

The sense of personal loss with which we contemplate the end of a delightful companionship is the more poignant because of a phase of genius with which Nature has touched Mr. Toland, genius far removed from his distinctive business qualities. It was the Muse who planted her art in the garden of our young friend's soul. When Watertown learns that it now has a business man who sings—sings sweetly, if you will; dramatically, if you prefer—the new neighbors of Mr. Toland will crave the pleasure as well as the profit of his residence there.

A selfish impulse to wish Mr. Toland bad luck, that he may return to us, we grimly suppress. Instead, we wish him the good fortune which he deserves and which, if the fates are fair, he will win.

This is the period in which Edward Grayson might write of "Little Adventures in Underwear."

An order is in order striking b.
v. ds. from the list of contraband.

To duck or not to duck—that is the question.

Damaged, But No Damages

A farmer, in looking his car over one day, thrust a lighted match into the gasoline tank. The ensuing explosion laid him up for several weeks. On the first day that he was able to be about he visited the storekeeper who had sold him the stuff and demanded compensation.

"Why should I pay you anything?"
asked the merchant, hotly. "It was your own fault. You knew it was gasoline."

"That's all right, but this accident was caused by defective gasoline."

"Defective gasoline?"

"Yes, sir. I've been sticking matches into gasoline that I've bought here before, but this was the first lot that ever acted that way."

Pittsburgh Chronicle.

It Never Failed Him

The cabby regarded the broken down taxi with a gleam of delight but did not speak. The chauffeur began operations on his machine. It turned and twisted it and banged it, but to no avail, and still the cabby spoke not. Then the chauffeur wiped his brow and the cabby,
still with the gleam in his eye,
crossed over: "Ere!" he exclaimed grimly, holding out his whip. "Ere yer are, mister, 'it in with this!"

Knew 'Em All

Allan Aynesworth, the actor, has a pretty wit. It is said that Mr.
Aynesworth met at the rehearsal of a new piece a youth who was giving himself many airs on the strength of his first engagement in London.
"These rehearsals are a beastly bag," the young man was good enough to observe, "but thank goodness I know my words."

"Both of them?" asked Aynesworth.

TO DARKEN HAIR
APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss
and Thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

WOMEN WHO ARE ALWAYS TIRED

May Find Help in This Letter.

Swan Creek, Mich.—"I cannot speak too highly of your medicine. When throughout I get run down and my appetite is poor and I have that weak, languid, always tired feeling, I get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it builds me up, gives me strength, and restores me to perfect health again. It is truly a great blessing to women, and I cannot speak too highly of it. I take pleasure in recommending it to others."—Mrs. ANNIE CAMERON, R.F.D., No. 1, Swan Creek, Michigan.

Another Sufferer Relieved.

Hebron, Me.—"Before taking your remedies I was all run down, discouraged and had female weakness. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sanative Wash, and find today that I am an entirely new woman, ready and willing to do my housework now, where before taking your medicine it was a dread. I try to impress upon the minds of all ailing women I meet the benefits they can derive from your medicines."—Mrs.

SURELY GERM-PROOF

The Antiseptic Baby and the Proprietary Pup

Were playing in the garden when the Bunny gamboled up:

They looked upon the Creature with a loathing undisguised:

It wasn't Disinfected and it wasn't Sterilized.

They said it was a Microbe and a Hotbed of Disease:

They steamed it in a vapor of a thousand-odd degrees:

They froze it in a freezer that was cold as Banished Hope

And washed it in permanganate with carbulated soap.

In sulphurated hydrogen they steeped its wiggly ears,

They trimmed its frisky whiskers with a pair of hard-boiled shears;

They donned their rubber mittens
and they took it by the hand

And lected it a member of the Fumigated Band.

There's not a Micrococcus in the garden where they play;

They bathe in pure iodoform a dozen times a day;

And each imbibes his rations from a Hygienic Cup.

Propylactic Pup.

Paid For the Same Thing

"Some men have no hearts," said the tramp. "I've been a-tellin' that feller I am so dead broke that I have to sleep outdoors."

"Didn't that fetch him?" asked the other.

"Naw. He told me he was a-doin'
the same thing, and had to pay the doctor for tellin' him to do it."

"A rich woman misses much in life."

"As to how?"

"She can't run out to the back fence when she gets hold of a choice bit of gossip. She has to get up a tea or reception, and by that time
the news is stale."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A South London resident, whose garden runs down to the railway line, has hit upon a novel recruiting advertisement.

He has hung out two old petticoats, with a poster reading:

"If you won't help your king and country now you had better wear these."

CHAPTER IX.
The Tragedy on Sun Rock.

All that day Kazan guarded the top of the Sun Rock. Fate, and the fear and brutality of masters, had heretofore kept him from fatherhood, and he was puzzled. Something told him now that he belonged to the Sun Rock, and not to the cabin.
The call that came to him from over the plains was not so strong. At dusk Gray Wolf came out from her retreat, and slunk to his side, whim-pering, and nipped gently at his shaggy neck. It was the old instinct of his fathers that made him respond by caressing Gray Wolf's face with his tongue. Then Gray Wolf's jaws opened, and she laughed in short panting breaths, as if she had been hard run. She was happy, and as they heard a little snuffling sound from between the rocks, Kazan wagged his tail, and Gray Wolf darted back to her young.

The babyish cry and its effect upon Gray Wolf taught Kazan his first lesson in fatherhood. Instinct again told him that Gray Wolf could not go down to the hunt with him now —that she must stay at the top of the Sun Rock. So when the moon rose he went down alone, and toward dawn returned with a big white rabbit between his jaws. It was the wild in him that made him do this, and Gray Wolf ate ravenously. Then he knew that each night hereafter he must hunt for Gray Wolf—and the little whimpering creatures hidden between the two rocks.

The next day, and still the next,
he did not go to the cabin, though he heard the voices of both the man and the woman calling him. On the fifth he went down, and Joan and the baby were so glad that the woman hugged him and the baby kicked and laughed and screamed at him,
while the man stood by cautiously, watching their demonstrations with a gleam of disapprobation in his eyes.

"I'm afraid of him," he told Joan for the hundredth time. "That's the wolf-cream in his eyes. He's of a treacherous breed. Sometimes I wish we'd never brought him home."

"If we hadn't—where would the baby—have gone?" Joan reminded him, a little catch in her voice.

"I had almost forgotten that,"
said her husband. "Kazan, you old devil, I guess I love you, too." He laid his hand caressingly on Kazan's head. "Wonder how he'll take to life down there?" he asked. "He has always been used to the forests. It'll seem mighty strange."

"And so—have I—always been used to the forests," whispered Joan.
"I guess that's why I love Kazan—
next to you and the baby. Kazan—
dear old Kazan!"

This time Kazan felt and scented more of that mysterious change in the cabin. Joan and her husband talked incessantly of their plans when they were together; and when the man was away Joan talked to the baby, and to him. And each time that he came down to the cabin during the week that followed, he grew more and more restless, until at last the man noticed the change in him.

"I believe he knows," he said to Joan one evening. "I believe he knows we're preparing to leave."

Then he added: "The river was rising again today. It will be another week before we can start, perhaps longer."

That same night the moon flooded
the top of the Sun Rock with a golden light, and out into the glow of it came Gray Wolf, with her three little whelps toddling behind her.

There was much about these soft little balls that tumbled about him and snuggled in his tawny coat that reminded Kazan of the baby. At times they made the same queer, soft little sounds, and they staggered about on their four little legs just as helplessly as baby Joan made her way about on two. He did not fondle them, as Gray Wolf did, but the touch of them, and their babyish whimper-ings, filled him with a kind of pleasure that he had never experienced before.

The moon was straight above them, and the night was almost as bright as day, when he went down again to hunt for Gray Wolf. At the foot of the rock a big white rabbit popped up ahead of him, and he gave chase. For half a mile he pursued, until the wolf instinct in him rose over the dog, and he gave up the fu-

Many Kinds of Rheumatism One Sure Mode of Treatment

Authorities Say Don't Use Liniments. Treat
It Through the Blood. You Can't Rub It Out!

Whether your trouble is Sciatica, Lumbago or the dreaded Articular Rheumatism, the answer is the same. You must treat it through the blood. That is the only way to rid the system of uric acid, purify the blood and revitalize the nerves. If the blood is freed from impurities, Rheumatism must go. This in short is the exact knowledge gained by the research laboratories of the S. S. S. Co., in Atlanta. There tests have been made for fifty years. They know what Rheumatism is. They know that S. S. S., the remarkable blood tonic, tile race. A deer he might have overtaken, but small game the wolf must hunt as the fox hunts it, and he began to slip through the thickets slowly and as quietly as a shadow.

He was a mile from the Sun Rock
when two quick leaps put Gray Wolf's supper between his jaws. He trotted back slowly, dropping the big seven-pound snow-shoe hare now and then to rest.

When he came to the narrow trail that led to the top of the Sun Rock he stopped. In that trail was the warm scent of strange feet. The rabbit fell from his jaws. Every hair in his body was suddenly electrified into life. What he scented was not the scent of a rabbit, a marten or a porcupine. Fang and claw had climbed the path ahead of him. And then, coming faintly to him from the top of the rock, he heard sounds which sent him up with a terrible whining cry. When he reached the summit he saw in the white moonlight a scene that stopped him for a single moment. Close to the edge of the sheer fall to the rocks, fifty feet below, Gray Wolf was engaged in a death-struggle with a huge gray lynx. She was down—and under, and from her there came a sudden sharp terrible cry of pain. Kazan flew across the rock. His attack was the swift silent assault of the wolf, combined with the greater courage, the fury and the strategy of the husky.
Another husky would have died in that first attack. But the lynx was not a dog or a wolf. It was "Mow-lee, the swift," as the Sarcees had named it—the quickest creature in the wilderness. Kazan's inch-long fangs should have sunk deep in its jugular. But in a fractional part of a second the lynx had thrown itself back like a huge soft ball, and Kazan's teeth buried themselves in the flesh of its neck instead of the jugular. And Kazan was not now fighting the fangs of a wolf in the pack, or of another husky. He was fighting claws—claws that ripped like twenty razor-edged knives, and which even a jugal hold could not stop.

Once he had fought a lynx in a trap, and he had not forgotten the lesson the battle had taught him.
He fought to pull the lynx down, instead of forcing it on its back, as he would have done with another dog or a wolf. He knew that when on its back the fierce cat was most dangerous. One rip of its powerful hind-feet could disembowel him.

Behind him he heard Gray Wolf sobbing and crying, and he knew that she was terribly hurt. He was filled with the rage and strength of two dogs, and his teeth met through the flesh and hide of the cat's throat.

But the big lynx escaped death by half an inch. It would take a fresh grip to reach the jugular, and suddenly Kazan made the deadly lunge.
There was an instant's freedom for the lynx, and in that moment it flung itself back, and Kazan gripped at its throat—on top.

(To Be Continued).

His Argument

An old negro near Victoria, Tex., who was the only Baptist in the vicinity, always "stuck up for his own faith," and was ready with a reason for it, although he was unable to read a word. This, the New York Methodist Christian Advocate relates, was the way he "put 'em down!":

"Yo' kin read, now, kain't yo'?"

"Yes."

"Well, I s'pose yo' read a Bible, hain't yo'?"

"Yes."

"Yo' read 'bout John de Baptist," hain't yo'?"

"Yes."

"Well, yo never read 'bout John de Metodis', did yo'?"

Try it, Brothers

"Does your wife ever grieve because she threw a wealthy man in order to marry you?" queried Hall.

"Well, she started to once," was the reply, "but I cured her of that without delay."

"I wish you would tell me how,"
said Hall.

"I started right in grieving with her," replied the other, "and I grieved harder than she did!"—National Monthly.

FUTURE OF RACE BRITISH QUESTION

Higher Birth Rate to Cope with Slaughter Is Matter of Much Discussion

BY ED L. KEEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
LONDON, Sept. 24.—(By mail.)
—More important than winning the war is the future of the British race.
With ever-increasing seriousness
the problem of future citizenship of the British Isles is being discussed in the nation. While thousands of Britain's best men are being slaughtered, serious British minds at home are asking:
"How can the public be encouraged to increase England's declining birth rate? What are we going to do for children, who alone can repair the loss of the military slaughter house? Will England tend to become a race of weaklings after the war?"
These are but a few of the questions that haven't been answered.
The subject is being talked in hundreeds of ways of places. It ranges from suggested polygamy to taxation of bachelors.

Dr. Philip Boothbyer, well-known Nottingham, medical authority, injected the prevailing topic of discussion into the meeting of the Royal Sanitary Institute, at Brighton, when he told the delegates:

"British stock is sound. Its moral quality has not deteriorated. War has taught us much and will teach us more. It will teach us, I hope, to follow the example of our great enemy. I hope we shall learn in some measure, as a nation, the folly and immorality of cutting down our offspring to one or two individuals per family, as many have in recent years."

Dr. Duncan Forbes, another authority on the subject, after pointing out that the government has taken steps to minimize the infant mortality situation, emphasized that the government should immediately take cognizance of the birthrate peril and after some inducement to the various classes in which the tendency to raise children was limited to one or two infants. He suggested a law of immunity from taxation that would cause fathers and mothers to feel that every new child would be an added burden of expense."

gamy. Another society suggests a ments suggests scores of things.

PUBLIC DEBATE

La Crosse, Wis., Oct. 6, 1915.
Mr. E. M. Brayton, Editor,
The TRIBUNE, La Crosse, Wis.
Dear Sir—

We readers of the newspapers
when we read editorials expressing sentiments with which we are not in accord, are prone to throw the paper down and, to ourselves, express opinions of editors and newspapers in general, which were perhaps better left unsaid. Consequently, it seems no more than fair that an editorial policy which meets with approval should receive some commendation.

Your editorials of last evening,
"Preparedness Futile to Prevent War," and "The Lion vs. The Lamb," are of the right sort.

The first paragraph of the "membership pledge" of the United States Navy League, is pure and simple clap-trap designed to catch the unthinking—"I pledge myself to think, talk and work patriotism, American-ism and sufficient national defense to keep the horrors of war far from America's homes and shores forever."

What is patriotism? Love of country? Yes. What do we mean by country? Do we mean the actual soil, the lakes, the rivers? More than 70 per cent of the dwellers in this country do not own one square foot of land, or $200 worth of property. Less than 30 per cent of the people own, and control through economic power, the entire wealth of the country, and it is this owning class, very naturally, that is crying for a bigger army and a bigger navy.
Look over the roster of the names of the members of this "League" and you will find that without a single exception, they are interested directly either in the manufacture of armaments, or they, or some near relative, has a nice, soft job in the army or navy department.

If war should come this owning class will take very particular pains to see that they are not on the firing line—rather, they hope to persuade "us," the non-owning, working class, 70 per cent to protect "their" property interests. We do not forget the circular put out by one of the "Patriotic" leagues a short time since, insisting that business men and manufacturers urge their employees to join the militia—clenching their argument by saying that "In case of war these men will be the proxies of such of us as may be prevented by business interests or family ties from going to the front."

Of course, the non-owning 70 per cent have no "business interests" and THEIR family ties are not to be considered.

If by "Our Country" we mean something more than the land, lakes and rivers—that is, the institutions, laws and customs of the country—
the idea remains the same. The institutions of learning, the pulpit,

and the press are to a very large extent controlled by the small owning class and, quite naturally, voice their interests. When these vehicles of expression fail to do their masters' bidding we see the result—for instance J. Scott Nearing of the University of Pennsylvania, one of the foremost educators of the United States, who was "fired" from this university for teaching the truth in the department of economics. Space forbids mention of a dozen or more similar instances within the last year. The Rocky Mountain News of Denver, Colorado, is an example of what is to be expected when a newspaper champions the cause of the workers as against the employers.
The Rocky Mountain News published the truth about the massacre of the innocents at Ludlow, by hirelings of John D. Rockefeller—John D. immediately bought the paper and the truth of strike conditions in Colorado never again appeared in its columns. Rumor has it that we could find an example of what happens to the man in the pulpit for expressing doctrines opposed by the owning class, right in our own little city—be this as it may, examples can be cited in other cities.

Yet, when in spite of these many instances which are no doubt known to you, you have the courage to voice your convictions against this beginning of the attempt to foist militarism upon us, you are deserving of the thanks of the workers.
For it is the workers who must not only pay for and build the instruments of warfare designed for human slaughter, but it is they and their class who must slaughter and be slaughtered.

Yours very truly,
D. V. LAWELL,
1121 Ferry St. La Crosse, Wis.

YEOMEN COMBINE BUSINESS MEET AND BIG DANCE

The Brotherhood of American Yeomen held its regular meeting in the new B. A. Y. lodge room on King street Tuesday evening in conjunction with its regular weekly dance in their large hall which was attended by over 200 members and friends. In the afternoon the ladies of Rowena Circle, B. Y. A. entertained their friends at cards. Prizes were won by Mesdames Weigel, Horton, Roth, Drake, Taylor and Vondrashek. The Circle will hold its regular meeting next Tuesday afternoon.

The large class adoption and dedication of the Yeoman hall has been postponed from October 14 to October 28, for the reason that it was impossible for the Grand Foreman of the order, and the editor of the Yeomen Shield to be present October 14. The Yeomen will give an old time dance on the evening of the fourteenth, free to members, to give those caring for the old dances a chance to enjoy themselves. If these affairs prove successful they will be given once a month in addition to the regular Tuesday affairs.

characteristic thing at the poor creatures.

"There ain't no sich animal," she quoted. "An alternate is neither fish nor fowl nor good red herring."

The question of abolishing alternates at the biennial will come before that body in New York, she said.

In closing, Miss Stearns spread over her arms a great silk American flag, bordered with a wide white strip marked "Peace for All Nations."

"Professor Zueblin," she said, "last night spoke of our American need for a symbol. Why can we not take this as our symbol and have the loving privilege of putting about it this border? You have seen how the flag, flung to the wind from schoolhouse or public building, frays and wears out at the edge. Put this border around it. Thereby you will protect the flag and the country."

The Little Corporal

Mrs. Kinsman in introducing Mrs. Pennybacker, said:

"The greatest general of his country—one of the greatest generals of history—was called lovingly by his men 'the little corporal.' I have the honor of presenting to you this evening the 'little corporal' of the general federation, Mrs. Pennybacker."

An outburst of applause greeted the general president as she came to the front of the stage. She spoke deliberately, choosing her words carefully and delivering them with emphasis.

Her address follows:

"It has been my fortune during the last three years to wander far and near over this beloved land of ours, to cross the sea, and to go as far north as Alaska. In all these wanderings there are two facts that are borne in, and borne in joyously upon your president. One is the unity of our national life. Never have I been more convinced of the high destiny of our nation, never more convinced that we are absolutely one people, this after seeing by personal experience each state save one. This unity is made possible by the existence of a certain great force that we may well term the Spirit of Federation, a spirit that lends itself to all that is unselfish, to all that means betterment of humanity.

"But because it is not meet for men or women or organizations to be self-satisfied, because the instant self-satisfaction establishes itself there is danger of retrogression, I shall not ask you to consider with me what we have done or what the spirit of federation has enabled us to accomplish. May I not ask that very informally you will talk with me as to some of the needs of the spirit of federation to bring about greater results in the future?"

Great Need Is Efficiency

"As I see it, the first great characteristic, that this spirit of federation needs—and I do not say that we have it not—the first great need is efficiency. You know we have passed our majority, we have passed our twenty-fifth birthday, therefore we have no right to be judged as doing very well for women, or for being so young. We are now to be judged by the world by a rule that is an everyday one—efficiency.

"And what do we need to be efficient?"

"First we need always to study before we act. Goethe never wrote a truer sentence than those words, 'Nothing is more dangerous than ignorance at work.' Have you ever seen a reform started in exactly the wrong way? Have you ever seen a good movement planned so you knew it was going to fail? Why? All because people starting these movements do not take time, do not give thought or patience enough to study fundamental principles upon which the plan was to be based; because they did not take time to learn what success and failure have taught others.

"We must not lose our tempers if people laugh at us, for no doubt there are times we deserve it. It is true that women—and when I say women, I might also say men—have actually asked their state legislatures for certain laws where investigation showed that these laws had long been on the statute books. Bureaus of government have received requests for aid to be arranged for the needs of a community where these needs had long since been met, where it developed that the government had offered these helps and wondered why the people did not waken to what the government had to offer. May we not take it as a basic principle that first of all, before any plan for betterment is made, we should study the history of every movement dealing with the subject? (Applause.)

Civic Work and Study

"Not study clubs alone, nor civic clubs alone, but a combination of the two we need. Oh, friends, if we could only persuade every club in the country to emblazon upon its year book in letters of gold these three words—Investigation, elimination, concentration. Then we shall have done with much surface work, and have attained a great step forward as regards efficiency.

"The next requisite we should have is co-operation of effort—co-operation from women of all classes, from the woman who stands highest in position to the woman who stands lowest, from the most uncultivated to the most cultured, from the woman of wealth to the one without. We have no right to neglect any one of these.

"I sometimes wonder, too, if in our desire to do our full duty toward those not so fortunate we have not forgotten that we have a duty also to the woman who is considered to have been blessed. The loneliest heart often dwells in a palace. Sometimes people blest with means absolutely yearn for a place in the world's work and do not know how to make a place in that work for themselves.

Men and Women Together

"But we need more than the co-operation of women—we need the co-operation of men and women. God put men and women into the world to work together, to live together, to play together. It is not man and it is not woman. Let us be done with this talk of this being the man's task and that the woman's task. Let us say that whatever has to do with building up a sweeter, lovelier country, and giving more privileges to the children, is the work of the man and the woman together. (Applause.)

The Father's Responsibility

"I would like right here to say that there is one bit of co-operation that we would like specially to ask of the men. Do you know that today there is no greater danger facing the American home than the absence of the father as a determining force in the shaping of the character and the development of his children? Gentlemen, when God gave you that greatest of all blessings, next to a good wife, the blessing of a child, he gave with it a responsibility which you cannot transfer to another, and yet how often do we hear businessmen remark: 'I leave the training of the children entirely to my wife.' Or if the mother comes to him to talk over some development in the child's character he tells her to do whatever she thinks best, that he has confidence in her judgment. It may be soothing to the wife's vanity, but it does not give her a share in the responsibility, and has she not a right to expect a share in the responsibility from the father of her child? Some of us mothers know only too well that try as we may no woman can be father and mother both. There comes a time in a boy's life when he thinks, 'My mother is all right, and I love her dearly, but my mother is a woman and all her standards are a woman's, and she can't understand me.' The boy does not long for his father's love, for that is already his, but he longs for his father's companionship, his father's understanding, his father's sympathy.

"I know perfectly well some gentlemen will say, 'Does it ever occur to you that we have to toil from early until late to bring up children?' I know the American is the most generous man in all the world, that he gives his wife and children all he has except himself and his time. And he does not give these only because he has not realized the necessity of so doing. Gentlemen, no boy ever went wrong for lack of luxury, no girl ever took a false step for lack of luxury, but more than one boy and more than one girl have gone wrong because the father's comradeship and the father's understanding were not given at the right time.

Your Daughter's Pattern

"Gentlemen, it is not your boys only who need you. That sweet young daughter, for whom you would give your right arm, is taking you as her measuring rod for that Prince Charming who is some day coming to woo and win her. And if you only keep her close enough, if you will only give her enough of yourself and your time, when he asks the great question and before she answers and before she goes even to her mother, she will come to you because she will think 'My father knows men, my father will understand and my father will advise me only for my own happiness.' Gentlemen, believe me, your wife and children would rather have a little less luxury, even not so many comforts, and more of your time and more of your companionship.

"But in this co-operation of ours we do not need only men and women, we need men, women and children. We need all to work together to create that marvelous something we call community spirit. That is a blessed thing if you can get it into a town or a county.

Persistence an Element

"And then the next point we need to be truly efficient—we need continuity of effort. This does not apply only to club life, it applies also to so many branches of our public life. Have you ever seen a certain project started by a club when all at once the administration changes? And what becomes of many of these movements well under way? Oftentimes they are dropped. Why? Because the officers who come in think, 'I must have something individualistic in my administration.' The cause should be greater than any leader. If we are truly efficient, having in mind a certain goal, leaders may come and leaders may go, but we will march straight on until we have accomplished our goal. (Applause.)

"And then, as a last attribute of efficiency, we need more and more the cultivation of a sense of humor. A sense of humor helps us over so many rough places. If you have learned to laugh at yourself it gives you more sympathy for the other man's viewpoint.

Loyalty Important

"The second division that I should like to touch upon tonight is that of loyalty. No organization can ever be what it should be unless its members are intensely loyal. And the first test of loyalty is for the member of an organization to accept himself to a sense of responsibility and individual service. I wonder if you find women in the Wisconsin Federation who are always willing to receive and receive and receive, but who never seem to think it is their duty to give something, not money alone, but real service? Whenever I hear a woman say 'What is the use of a federation? Why in the world do we have a federation?' I would like to ask, 'My dear lady, what have you ever given to the federation?' When we give of ourselves, when we give of our love and service, we do not ask the reason, we do not ask why we should be bound together in a great body to bring about great blessings. If we can only arouse each of the 2,000,000 women in this federation to say to those whom they have chosen as chief servants. Here are we, use us! We will contribute one hour's service to the time to serve this organization—if we can only get something like that, what prodigies we shall accomplish in the next year!"

"Then under the head of loyalty, I should like to ask you to remember that loyalty to the smallest duty is a sign of loyalty to the greater obligations. There are some women who do not seem to feel that one part of their loyalty is the casting of their vote. Here is a club meeting or a federation meeting. The chairman states the motion; it is seconded and is now before the meeting for discussion. Here is a nice lady over here who does not say a word; another over there says nothing. Then the question is put, but neither one votes. The decision is announced. No one says anything. The ladies make no comment until the meeting is adjourned. When a block or two away, they begin: 'I don't see what the did that for. I am not at all pleased with the way they managed it. I did not want to see that measure carried at all.' Now, who is 'they'? Who is this mysterious someone we like to blame? You and you, and I and I, if you will allow this mixture. These ladies had a perfect right to discuss the matter. If they did not understand the question they had a right to ask for information. When the time came to vote they had a right to vote. If they could not make up their minds they could refuse to vote. If these people held their peace at the right time, then they had no right to criticize the action of the majority after they passed out.

"Let us learn from our brothers and our husbands to abide by the will of the majority is a great lesson to be learned from democracy. Praise Helps

"And then as a sign of loyalty, don't be afraid to admire each other.

And when we admire each other internally give it a bit of external expression. Don't be afraid to say all the nice things you feel for fear it may turn their heads. There are always plenty of the other kind. (Applause.)

"Another side of loyalty: when anything even approaches unpleasantness in the club meeting or in the federation meeting, we should say nothing of it. No woman is loyal who will go into the community and tell things that may be misunderstood, or repeats at home the least thing that may cast discredit upon the club or a member. We don't realize the harm that is done. That criticism, that complaint, on your part, has planted a wee bit of prejudice in the heart of the man. It is in his consciousness all the time and, while we forget it, it lingers there. Friends, you and I have a great deal to do with the estimate our husbands and sons and fathers have not only of club work but of women in general.

The Spirit of Sisterhood

"I wonder if we always remember our duty to the other woman. I wonder if you and I have done all that we could to reach down a hand and help up the steps the women who are just as good as we are, who have just as warm hearts, just as bright brains, but to whom fate has not been so kind. That is the kind of loyalty that will put our federation at its greatest height, that will prove to the world what the federation is for—the spirit of service, a sisterly love throughout the country and throughout the world.

The Call From the Country

"I would say that for the progress of this spirit we not only need efficiency and loyalty—we need vision. I shall but touch upon the dream I have preached to you for three years of the bringing of more and more youth into the ranks. I think you have done nobly. But I am going to ask you to consider with me one vision—that of what we can do to improve conditions in rural communities. I shall confine my remarks to one branch. I believe you will agree with me that there is no question more vital before this country than the betterment of rural life. We do not mean that we shall learn to get more out of the soil. We mean people are to have more of life. If that is not done we cannot hold the young people in the country when the city beckons.

Yearly Change Fatal

"As we go to the country fair what do we see in the rural center? We see a church, a store, a doctor's house perhaps, and a school house. If this school building is to be a community center, it must be presided over by a reasonably efficient teacher with at least a reasonable amount of compensation. It was stated this morning that over fifty per cent of our rural teachers change every year. This is true of the country at large. As a second point please remember that a majority of the teachers in the country are untrained, inexperienced and inexperienced. Why are they untrained and inexperienced? Because the towns and cities will not have teachers who are not experienced. They say to the teacher, 'Go and practice on the children in the country and if you don't make too much of a failure we will give you a trial.' Remember, then, that the majority of the minority of the good teachers have their eyes fixed on the cities and are working to enter those schools. Does that look like the right kind of teachers to establish school centers?"

"Why do they change every year? After investigating the matter I am sure that the chief reason that the country teacher changes so often is on account of the boarding places with which she must put up in the country. I wonder if even in Wisconsin ten per cent of your people in towns and cities know what the country teacher has to endure—the long walks through all kinds of weather, the lack of janitor service, poor food, cold lunches, no privacy, lack of everything that tends to make life sweet, healthy and sane. No, I know you do not. May I tell you of some examples?"

A Home for the Teacher

"When we go to countries over the sea—to Norway, Sweden, Germany, England, Denmark—we find that the country teachers stay year after year. But we find also, hard by the country school house, the home for the country teacher. If that has worked there, may it not work in our country? It will give the teacher an anchorage, a place where she can feel that she is of use to the community; it will give her permanency, a chance to turn four walls into a home. She can have a garden—you know land is reasonable in the country, and that every school house has its plot of land.

"I know perfectly well that you will say, 'That would do in thickly settled districts, but how are you going to get the teachers to live alone? It can't be done.' 'Let me try to remove these objections. What man hath done man can do. Washington is a state of magnificent distances, yet it has 108 of these teachers' homes in successful operation and is building more every year. Mrs. Preston, state superintendent of Washington, says that not in a single case has the teacher's home been a failure.

They'll Not Live Alone

"We do not expect young girls to live alone. The consolidated school has come or is on the way. The consolidated school settles this matter of living alone, and the thing works mutually. The consolidated school has helped the home, and the home has helped the consolidated school.

"We do not want the teachers to live alone. Do you ever stop to think of the widowed mothers, aunts, cousins, who would be glad to leave the towns and cities for a chance to come and help make a home for the country teacher? Then there is the country girl who would be glad of an opportunity to attend the village high school or who wants to stay longer at the country school.

"Another vision—When are we going to have the visiting rural nurse as well? I once talked on this subject in Dubuque, and a gentleman, a German who had recently returned from South Africa, said that in the German colonies in South Africa they have a three-room school building, completely furnished, for every teacher, and a similar home for every rural nurse. What man hath done man certainly can do again. If we only arouse country sentiment we can bring to pass here what Washington has done.

"But now do I hear someone say, 'Where are you going to get the money?' Why, of course, public money. But you don't know the rural community if you think they are going to give money for any such nonsense, you say. 'You can't get our town to spend money for school clubs.'

"Don't you believe it.

Why Not As in the City

"In the cities the schools afford every advantage of instruction and convenience, attractive surroundings, inspiring paintings, things to improve body and mind, purchased at public expense.

"Why should the child of the country be deprived of all this? The country I would like to stir up to arouse every country mother to demand for her child all the educational advantages that towns and cities give their children. This is not just a dream, it can be done. When the people know, the people will do. Only arouse the people to see what can be done, what has been done, then the people will know and then the people will do.

"I am delighted to know what Wisconsin has done in the way of giving the teacher an additional bit of salary for every year she continues in the same place. That is great work. I shall carry the news to all the other states.

"I beg for the country teacher a chance to flower out and be at her best, a chance to make the right atmosphere, ask the children to share her home, to have a chance to take root. Can't we do something to give the teacher a chance?"

Primitive Life in Turkey.

Owing to the lack of building stone and almost total lack of wood of any kind in one of the interior districts of Turkey, all houses in both town and country are built of mud bricks called "kerpiç," which is a mixture of mud and straw. The houses are not large and part of them is always used for the stable, one or two rooms only being reserved for use of the family, which lives in the simplest and most primitive manner. Everyone sleeps rolled up in a blanket on the earth floor.

HARMONY REIGNS AT LAST SESSION OF CONVENTION

They are perhaps more democratic, but confusing, she suggested. The changes, however, were adopted without a dissenting voice.

Complete Primary System

The new regulations give the federation a complete primary system of nomination and an Australian ballot system of election, with second choice provisions.

Speakers at the business session were limited to two minutes on the floor, and were forbidden to speak more than once on the same subject. Only once during the discussion was there a division of opinion which required more than a viva voce vote. That was on the minor consideration of whether the word "shall" or "may" should be used in defining the duties of the president in regard to nominating the corresponding secretary. Then a rising vote was taken and 75 were found to be in favor of "may" with 74 standing for "shall."

The convention adopted the recommendation of the special loan fund committee, that the fund of $1,700 be divided into two parts, one to be used to help women to education higher than college work, and the other to be used to help girl high school graduates through college.

In order to expedite business the election of delegates to the biennial general convention in New York next May was passed over to the executive board.

Hereafter the second day of the annual convention will have one session devoted to legislative business, according to a rule adopted by the convention near the end of the business session this morning. The rule was adopted in order to obviate the necessity of rushing matters through in the way in which time limitations demanded that the business session today be conducted.

Attendance Smaller

When the convention opened its final session this morning the attendance was noticeably decreased. Delegates and visitors began to leave at noon yesterday, and many left on last night's trains. When the business session of the convention was called to order about 10:30 practically all of the visitors and alternates left the hall, and there were about 150 delegates left in their seats to handle the business of the convention.

One of the interesting moments of the convention this morning was that of Mrs. Pennybacker's farewell. The general president made a brief "good-bye" speech from the platform, in which she urged a good attendance from Wisconsin at the biennial convention in New York next spring. She was roundly applauded as she bowed her adieu and moved up the aisle. A number of the delegates crowded about her to shake her hand as she paused for a moment in the rear of the church.

Urges Pageants

Mrs. Thomas G. Winter of Minneapolis, head of the general federation department of literature, took the floor also for a brief announcement of the Shakespeare pageants next April. She urged upon the clubwomen to arrange Shakespeare pageants with their high schools, if possible. Town pageants, in which adults may participate, would be better, she declared.

Mrs. A. H. Shoemaker of Eau Claire, head of the state press committee, made an announcement of her plans for the coming year. She urged each club to appoint a correspondent, to keep the district correspondent and the state committee in touch with the work of the local organizations. A club column in all of the newspapers, she declared, was to be sought by the federated clubs.

The morning session listened to an address this morning by Professor J. L. Gillen of the university on "Women's Clubs and Rural Problems."

Urges County Nurses

A plea for the aid of the clubwomen in employing county nurses to help rural mothers in the care of their children was the burden of Professor Gillen's address. At its conclusion Miss Stearns of Milwaukee stepped forward.

"I just want to remind you," she said, "that we have already a Wisconsin law providing for county nurses. Take advantage of it. Go

Illinois Cattleman to Face Grand Jury for Shipping Cattle in Violation of Quarantine Law

Privates Lewis Therin and Gustave Chamberlain of the United States army were ordered subpoenaed at Fort Sheridan, Chicago, where they are stationed, today, by United States District Attorney John A. Aylward to appear before the federal grand jury here next week as witnesses in the trial of an Illinois man for violation of the recent federal quarantine against cattle, placed on account of the foot and mouth disease. Stock was shipped from Illinois into Wisconsin. Some difficulty was found in serving the subpoenas, army officers saying they were invalid on army reservations.

Prof. Gillen pointed out that three-fifths of the Wisconsin population lives in rural communities.

"Therefore," said he, "three-fifths of our problems are the problems of the rural communities, the country, the villages and the small towns. How the other half lives in Boston and New York is not vital to Wisconsin. There are lots of things about rural life that we need to know that are of supreme importance to the state.

"We are accustomed to think of cities as Saharas of barrenness when it comes to recreation, but there is not a small town in Wisconsin that has recreational facilities for its children. We may think the children don't want to be taught how to play, but I want to tell you of a recent survey in Milwaukee that found out that fifty per cent of the children didn't know how to play. They were only able to stand around listlessly. Even the country school grounds are nothing more than ground. They haven't even a tree to climb, or a rail fence to walk."

Baby Death Rate High

Professor Gillen declared that the infant death rate in Wisconsin is three per thousand more than the average for the United States at large, although the entire death rate is much lower than the national average. He urged that all women's clubs inaugurate a department of rural work for the interesting of country women. He praised the efforts being made by the clubwomen to better country schools.

"The history of the public school," he said, "is that when women take hold they lose the lack of association with life and become vital social agencies."

INFIELD HITTING MARKS FIRST BIG BATTLE OF SERIES

der to Luderus. Hooper on second. Speaker up. Strike one called. Strike two called. Ball one, high. Foul. Ball two, low. Foul. Ball three, Alexander and Burns stepped together for a conference. Foul. Ball four. Speaker walked. Alexander labored hard with Tris. He had him in the hole with two strikes at start, but lost the advantage. Hoblitzell up. Hobby forced Speaker. Bancroft to Niehoff. Hooper on third. Lewis up. Hobby was out off first. Alexander to Luderus. NO RUNS. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

Hooper's hit on the second ball Alexander pitched was a clean smash through the box. Things looked dark for Alec until he pulled his lightning throw which nailed Hobby off first. PHILADELPHIA—Stock up. Ball one, high. Strike one called. Strike two, foul. Foul. out. Stock fouled to Cady. Bancroft up. Strike one called. Ball one, flied. Bancroft flied to Barry. Paskert up. Ball one, wide. Paskert fouled to Hoblitzell. NO RUNS. NO HITS. NO ERRORS.

Shore had it on Alexander in this inning. He disposed of the Phillies with eight pitched balls. The sun was shining brightly at this time and weather conditions were looking up.

Second Inning

BOSTON—Lewis up. Strike one, foul. Lewis fouled a screamer to left. Ball one, wide. Strike two, foul. Lewis singled to left. It was a good clean knock. Gardner up. Ball one, wide. Ball two, wide. Strike one called. Gardner sacrificed. Alexander to Luderus. Lewis taking second. Barry up. He got a great hand from the Philadelphia rooters. Barry forced Lewis between second and third. Alexander to Bancroft to Niehoff. Barry took second on the play and was called safe on a close decision. Cady up. Ball one; foul. Strike one, foul. Strike two, called. Foul. Ball three. Cady fanned. NO RUNS. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

The Red Sox were keeping Alexander working hard. He cut off Lewis by taking his time when Barry bounced a hard one at him. It failed to feaze Alexander and he pulled the forced-play nicely.

PHILADELPHIA—Cravath up. Ball one. Ball two, wide. Ball three, wide. Ball four—Cravath walked on four pitched balls. Shore shot them at Cravath's feet. Luderus up. Strike one, called. Luderus forced Cravath on a grounder to Barry, unassisted. Luderus on first. Whitted up. Strike one called. Ball one. Ball two. Luderus out stealing. Cady to Barry. Strike two called ball three. Whitted walked. Niehoff up. Strike one called. Strike two, foul. Niehoff fanned. NO RUNS. NO HITS. NO ERRORS.

Shore did not dispose of the Phillies in such quick order this inning, but worked slowly and deliberately and was in trouble at no time, though he gave Cravath and Whitted passes.

Third Inning

BOSTON—Shore up. Ball one. Strike one called. Shore out. Niehoff to Luderus. Hooper up. Strike one called. Ball one, low. Hooper flied to Whitted. Scott up. Strike one called. Scott singled to center. Speaker up. Speaker flied to Whitted. NO RUNS. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

Alexander was going better in this inning than either of the previous two despite the fact that Scott nicked him for the Red Sox third hit. Speaker's fly to Whitted was a weak effort.

PHILADELPHIA—Burns up. Strike one called. Ball one, low. Ball two, low. Burns popped to Scott. Alexander up. He received a great hand. Ball one, wide. Ball two, low. Strike one, called. Strike two, foul. Alexander singled infield. The ball took a bad bound and Gardner could not get it in time. Stock up. Strike one called. Ball one, high. SStock forced Alexander at second. Gardner to Barry. Bancroft up. Strike one, foul. Bancroft out to Hoblitzell, unassisted. NO RUNS. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

Alexander's scratch hit was the first safe blow the Phillies had gathered off Shore. It was a scratch hit. The Boston band struck up "Tessie."

Fourth Inning

BOSTON—Hoblitzell up. Strike one called; strike two, foul. Hoblitzell was out. Niehoff to Luderus. Lewis up. Ball one. Ball two, wide. Strike one, swung. Foul. Strike two, Ball three, high. Foul. Foul. Lewis fanned. Gardner up. Ball one, wide. Strike one, foul. Gardner singled to center. Barry up. Ball one. Barry flied to Cravath. NO RUNS. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

At this stage of the game Boston had worked three men around to second and one to third in position to score if a single had been delivered. The Phils had not gotten a man as far as second.

PHILADELPHIA—Paskert up. Strike one called. Paskert singled over first. This was the Phils' second hit of the game and the crowd went wild. Cravath up. Cravath sacrificed. Shore to Hoblitzell. Paskert on second. Luderus up. Luderus out to Niehoff. Paskert on third. Whitted up. Ball one, low. Whitted beat out infield hit, Paskert scoring.

PHILADELPHIA—Paskert up. Strike one called. Paskert singled over first. This was the Phils' second hit of the game and the crowd went wild. Cravath up. Cravath sacrificed. Shore to Hoblitzell. Paskert on second. Luderus up. Luderus out to Niehoff. Paskert on third. Whitted up. Ball one, low. Whitted beat out infield hit, Paskert scoring.

Alexander put over his fifth strike out when he fanned Hooper, nipping the Red Sox threat to score. Lewis up to this time had twice fallen his victim.

PHILADELPHIA—Whitted up.

Strike one called. Strike two. Ball one, wide. Ball two, wide. Whitted flied to Lewis. Niehoff up. Strike one called. Strike two called. Niehoff out. Shore to Hobby. Burns up. Burns out. Barry to Hobby. NO RUNS. NO HITS. NO ERRORS.

The crowd was beside itself with delight. Niehoff up. Ball one. Whitted stole second. Ball two, Ball three. Strike one. Strike two called. Foul. Foul. Niehoff out. Scott to Hoblitzell. ONE RUN. TWO HITS. NO ERRORS.

On a dry field Barry probably would have fielded safely Whitted's twister which scored Paskert. He could not reach it in time, however, with a ton of mud on the ground.

The crowd warmed up with one tally over the plate, but before Paskert raced home the innings had been reeled off amid absolute silence at time.

Fifth Inning

BOSTON—Cady up. Cady out. Niehoff to Luderus. Shore up. Strike one called. Shore singled to center. Hooper up. It was a nice liner over Alexander's head. Hooper up. Out, popped to Bancroft. Scott up. Scott forced Shore at second, Niehoff to Bancroft. NO RUNS. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

PHILADELPHIA—Burns up. Ball one. Strike one called. Foul. Strike two, Ball two, wide. Burns fanned. Alexander up. Strike one called. Ball one. Alexander flied to Lewis. Stock up. Strike one called. Foul. Strike two, Ball one. Foul. Stock safe, on Shore's error. Bancroft up. Foul, strike one. Ball one, wide. Bancroft out. Shore to Hoblitzell. NO RUNS. NO HITS. NO ERRORS.

The official scorer gave Shore an error on Stock's boulder in front of the plate, but this goes with a big question mark. Shore could not even get his hands on the ball which bounded into the mud and stopped dead.

Sixth Inning

BOSTON—Speaker up. Strike one, called. Ball one. Strike two, swung. Ball two, wide. Speaker flied to Whitted. Hoblitzell up. Hobby singled to right. Lewis up. Ball one, wide. Strike one, called. Foul. Strike two, called. Gardner up. Strike one, called. Gardner popped to Burns. NO RUNS. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

With Hobby's terrific smash to right the Red Sox had hit Alexander safely once in each inning so far. Speaker nearly broke his back swinging at one of Alec's offerings in this inning.

PHILADELPHIA—Paskert up. Ball one, wide. Ball two. Strike one called. Strike two, swung. Paskert out. Shore to Hobby. Cravath up. Ball one. Foul, strike one. Strike two, called. Cravath flied to Speaker. Luderus up. Ball one, wide. Luderus out. Barry to Hobby. NO RUNS. NO HITS. NO ERRORS.

This was an easy inning for Shore. Cravath, the Philly slugger, was an easy victim with a pop fly. Boston rooters began to pull for some scoring.

Seventh Inning

BOSTON—Barry up. Ball one, inside. Strike one. Barry singled to left. Cady up. Strike one. Cady sacrificed. Alexander to Luderus. Barry on second. Shore up. Ball one. Strike one called. Strike two, swung. Ball two. Fanned. Hooper up. Ball one. Strike one called. Strike two called. Ball two. Hooper fanned. NO RUNS. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

Alexander put over his fifth strike out when he fanned Hooper, nipping the Red Sox threat to score. Lewis up to this time had twice fallen his victim.

PHILADELPHIA—Whitted up. Strike one called. Strike two. Ball one, wide. Ball two, wide. Whitted flied to Lewis. Niehoff up. Strike one called. Strike two called. Niehoff out. Shore to Hobby. Burns up. Burns out. Barry to Hobby. NO RUNS. NO HITS. NO ERRORS.

Eighth Inning

BOSTON—Scott up. Ball one, low. Foul, strike one. Scott flied to Bancroft. Speaker up. Ball one. Ball two, low. Ball three, wide. Walked. Hobby up. Strike one called. Ball one. Hobby out. Stock to Luderus. Speaker on second. Lewis up. Lewis singled, scoring. Speaker. Lewis taking second on throw in. Lewis drive was a clean one to left. Speaker scored with room to spare. Gardner up. Strike one. Gardner flied to Paskert. ONE RUN. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

Alexander laid the foundation for the Sox to tie the score when he refused to give Speaker a chance to hit and passed him on four pitched balls.

PHILADELPHIA—Alexander up. Strike one called. Alexander out. Barry to Hobby. Stock up. Ball one, high. Ball two, low. Strike one, called. Ball three. Strike two, called. Stock walked. Bancroft up. Strike one called. Foul, strike two. Ball one. Bancroft singled. Stock stopping at second. Paskert up. Strike one called. Foul, strike two. Ball three. Walked. Filing the bases. Cravath up. Cravath out. Scott to Hobby. Stock scoring. Luderus up. Ball one, wide. Ball two, wide. Luderus safe, singled to infield. Bancroft scoring. Whitted up. Ball one, low. Ball two. Whitted still up. Ball three. Luderus was caught off first. Cady to Barry, who ran him down. TWO RUNS. TWO HITS. NO ERRORS.

Barry made a remarkable stop and throw of Bancroft's infield single which set off the rally in this inning, but could not make it.

Ninth Inning

BOSTON—Barry up. Ball one, low. Strike one, swung. Foul, strike two. Barry fanned. Hendrickson, batting for Cady, up. Ball one. Ball two, wide. Strike one called. Strike two swung. Foul. Hendrickson safe at first on Luderus' error. Ruth batting for Shore. Ruth up. Ball one, wide. Ruth out. Luderus unassisted. Hendrickson taking second. Hooper up. Strike one swung. Foul, strike two. Ball one. Ball two, wide. Foul. Hooper flied to Luderus. NO RUNS. NO HITS. ONE ERROR.

Grounds Were Bad

The contenders for the world's series began the first game of the world's premier baseball struggle this afternoon on as rotten a playing field as the annual classic was ever contested on. The infield was covered with a slimy, treacherous blanket of muck which a small army of ground keepers labored feverishly, but vainly, to make firm under foot.

Shortly before one o'clock the diamond was flooded with gasoline and a match applied. The conflagration dried off the surface, but scarcely touched the real seat of the trouble. Sawdust, crushed brick—everything was thrown on to the playing plat but still it threatened to make the infielders crazy with grief and consternation.

The crowd, of course, packed the grand-box park to suffocation. Hundreds stood outside the gates and gave up a small fortune for the coveted paper slips.

Speulators paid their winter expenses on the proceeds of today's battling.

The 51 bleachers were filled in thirty minutes after the gates opened and the faithful patiently awaited the coming of the principals.

They were rewarded, or at least satisfied at 12:40 when John Patrick Moran, with a good old Irish swag, led his white-suited cohorts through the gate under the center field bleachers.

Ten minutes later the Red Sox trooped in. A pale, anaemic sun came out as Moran and Carrigan greeted each other with seeming fervor at the plate and smiled into the cameras.

The Phillies were the first to take the field for batting practice. Demaree served up some shoots for Moran's sluggers to poke at. In the meantime the Red Sox were wailing in the mire on the side lines, taking the kinks out of their arms. The infield appeared so soggy that it seemed a runner would almost surely mire down. Water was standing on the surface in front of the benches. Fortunate enough to have been unloaded by the Athletics, Jack Barry appeared smilingly as a world's series combatant for the 'steenth time. Whitted, now a Philly, also wore the expression of the cat that had just swallowed the canary as he stepped up for practice, bringing recollections of the days of the Braves.

By one o'clock the crowd was streaming in, and at 1:15 the grandstand began to show signs of real life. While a band teased itself with popular and near-popular airs, Alexander, Moran, Bancroft and other Phillies, together with Carrigan, Speaker, Hooper, Loomis and other Red Sox posed in various postures, alleged to be graceful, for a swarm of photographers.

U. C. T. DANCING CLUB TO HOLD FIRST FROLIC OF YEAR

The first of the annual series of six dances given by the U. C. T. Dancing club will be given tomorrow night at the Elks' hall. Dancing will be indulged in between the hours of 8 and 12, with Hackbart's orchestra furnishing the music. Refreshments will be served at each dance during the evening, it was announced by J. W. Callaway, chairman of the general committee for the dances. The dances are given primarily for the enjoyment of the members, although non-members can secure invitations through the members of the club.

The club will hold their annual ball in January, the final date to be selected later. It will be an invitation dance, and more elaborate than the club social dances, together with the announcement, that the dance program will endure from 8 to 2 o'clock.

The general committee in charge of the series of dances is J. W. Callaway, chairman; P. J. Yerly, Frank Sisson, Oscar Lundgren, C. J. Morton, B. C. Smith, and C. E. Barrett.

The dates selected for the series of six dances are: Oct. 9, Nov. 13, Dec. 16, Feb. 12, March 4 and April 29.

BATTLE FILMS OF GERMAN ARMY ON SHOW AT MAJESTIC

Five reels of the most sensational battle films ever exhibited in La Crosse—films taken in the bullet-swept zones of Europe's great struggle, will be shown at the Majestic theater for two days, beginning today. The films are called "The German Side of the War." They were taken under the express protection of the German emperor for exhibition in the United States, although the imperial permission was not obtained until the agreement was made that half of the proceeds of the pictures' exhibition should be devoted to the relief of blind and crippled German soldiers.

Since this agreement still holds, fifty per cent of the Majestic box office receipts for the next two days will be turned into the coffers of the fund which the German government is raising for the aid of crippled heroes.

The pictures were taken by Edward F. Weigle, staff photographer of the Chicago Tribune. They broke all attendance records when they were exhibited in Chicago, and have continued the record wherever exhibited since.

CUBS EVEN UP ON SOUTH SIDE MEN

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—The Chicago Nationals evened up the series with the Chicago Americans on Thursday when they shut them out 4 to 0, in the second game for the championship of Chicago.
The pitching of Jimmy Lavender was the deciding factor. Lavender held his opponents to four scattered hits and had little trouble winning.

WAR HELPS JERSEY SHOW

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Oct. 8.—The entry list for the eighteenth annual horse show of the Morristown Field club, which opened here was larger than in past years by reason of the international horse show not taking place this fall in London, thus keeping more fine animals in this country.

She Knew What It Was.
The teacher, picking up an orange that was lying on the desk, explained that it was a unit. The next day the peeling had been left there, so, picking up a couple, she asked what they were. There was a pause. Presently a bright-faced but shy girl answered, "Why, that's the skin of a unit."—Little Chronicle.

PEACE DAY AT FAIR

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 8.—This is Peace day at the fair. A program memorializing the principle of universal peace, prepared by David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford, Jr., university, was presented.

Roumanian Characteristics.

The Roumanians are fond of their folk tales and proverbs. One of the most popular of the proverbs is: "The Roumanian never dies." The Roumanian is anything but arrogant, yet the pride shown in the proverb is exemplified again in the fact that he will not do domestic service if he can avoid it.

BEFORE THE BATTLE STATEMENTS:

The Red Sox have never lost a world's series, and we do not expect to lose this one. We are ready. The boys have never failed me in a big fight during the league season and I expect them to come through now. But we will make our claims after the last game.—Manager Bill Carrigan.

If confidence wins ball games look out for us in this series. We are ready to the last word. There is no secret about it.—ALEXANDER will pitch the first game. We are not claiming the series in advance, but we expect to win.—Manager Pat Moran.

WEDDING GOAT STOLEN

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Some one got Rocco Penna's goat. Not only that, but someone ate it. Penna, who lives in the Bronx, was having the goat cooked in a nearby bakers for his daughter's engagement dinner. When they went to fetch the baked goat they discovered that some one had stolen it.

What "Candle Power" Means.
When we say that a light is a certain candle power we are expressing a measure of brilliancy. Candle power is a definite term fixed by American law as the amount of light given by a candle burning 120 grains of wax per hour. Such candles come six to the pound.

HARRY GRANT IS DEAD FROM BURNS

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Harry F. Grant, world famous automobile speed driver, died early today in the Coney Island hospital, from burns sustained a week ago at the Sheephead Bay race track. He was to have participated in the race tomorrow. While the elimination try-outs last night at a speed of ninety-five miles an hour, Grant's car caught fire. Before he could stop the machine he was badly burned and had inhaled some of the flames. The final trials for Saturday's race were to be held today, weather permitting. Slippery track prevented the trials yesterday.

"Whys" of Moves in European War

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Complaints which are being made in London that the allies have muddled the Balkans situation are emphasized by the suggested probability that the king of Greece will be able to organize a coalition ministry. If a successor to M. Venizelos is found who is less radical in international affairs, the outcome will be a serious one for the allies.

King Constantine apparently has quite decided that Greece shall not begin hostilities against the Teuton powers. He has also concluded, apparently, that because Serbia offered to cede territory to Bulgaria, Greece is released from her treaty pledge to go to Serbia's assistance in the event of a Serbo-Bulgarian war. If a coalition premier can be found who will support the king and who in turn can command the support of parliament, Greece will remain neutral unless Bulgaria begins an offensive campaign against her.

It is unlikely that the Bulgars will attack Greece. Such an act would be contrary to the aims of the Teutons, who want to prevent aid being given to the quadruple entente. Bulgaria, too, in all probability will have enough to do to operate against Serbia alone. If Greece, therefore, is left alone by Bulgaria and if King Constantine is able to work his will with the Athens parliament, the peculiar situation which has arisen through the landing of allied troops on Greek soil may become one of danger.

For the moment, there is much mystery concerning these troops. It is certain that a French army has disembarked, but there is no certainty that a British force has landed as well. There have been veiled suggestions, in fact that the Paris and London governments are not in accord concerning the advisability of violating Greece's neutrality. Serious danger for the allies exists in the possibility that the new Greek ministry may actively interfere with the use of Greece as a base of operations against Bulgaria and the Teutons.

The allies could not attempt to fight their way through Greece, if this were to happen. It is possible, therefore, that after the French troops, now marching through Greece to Serbia, reach their destination, they may be cut off through the positive refusal of Greece to allow supplies to be forwarded to them. The situation might thus become precarious. The allies undoubtedly have planned all their faith to M. Venizelos. If he is able to force his way back to power, all may yet be well with the quadruple entente, but for the moment it appears as if too much confidence had been placed in the fallen premier.

CROP WILL TOTAL ABOVE BILLION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The 1915 American wheat crop will total 1,002,029,000 bushels, according to October estimates of the department of agriculture announced Thursday. This estimate is an increase of 22,700,000 bushels over the September estimates.

The 1915 corn crop will total 3,026,159,000 bushels; the oat crop 1,517,478,000 bushels; barley, 236,682,000 bushels.

Week's Offering in Movieland As Seen in La Crosse

By N. D. Tevis

"Variety is the spice of life,"—the jingle artist has said, and La Crosse movie house conductors have acted on his suggestion and are putting some "ginger" into the business which is closely akin to "pep."

"Movieland" is acting on the same hunch in presenting the motion picture programs of the week to the fan of the celluloid projection.

Probably the biggest announcement of the several made this week is that of "Kop" of the Majestic, who soon will commence the exhibition of Triangle films, heralded as "the best there are." It is hoped that they may be. They have Thomas Ince, and D. W. Griffith and Sennett as the star producers, and the first two mentioned as just a little bit in advance of any picture men in the country.

And now comes Harry Burford of the Bijou with the announcement that pictures will be shown in conjunction with his new "vaude" stunt at the La Crosse theater. He says his vaudeville is going to be the best ever, but "Movieland" is interested in the pictures. Fifty-two reels of Kleine's Travel Jaunts are to be shown, and they are "real" films, hand colored, and some of the most wonderfully photography ever seen here.

Pictures at La Crosse Houses Today

CASINO—"The High Road," with Valli Valli, a Metro feature. MAJESTIC—"The German Side of the War." A complete look at the German army in action. The films were taken with permission of the emperor, and the producers go "fifty-fifty" with the afflicted soldiers of the European empire. BIJOU—"Sold," featuring Pauline Frederick, star of The Eternal City picture.

"Mack", otherwise known as McWilliams, kingpin of the little Casino, and the man who is putting up the first "up-town" theater in town announces a week of nothing but Metro features, and "Mack" is about as proud of his Metro service, recently acquired, as a hen of a new flock of Plymouth Rocks. McWilliams announces that his new house, situated near Eighteenth and Jackson streets is nearing completion.

Pauline Frederick—Bijou

Pauline Frederick, star of the Famous Players films and one of the rare beauties of the screen is playing today and tomorrow at the Bijou in "Sold." The actress will be remembered in the lead in "The Eternal City." "Sold" is a great drama of woman's devotion, and Miss Frederick's acting is a sensation.

Mary Pickford Packs Theater

Mary Pickford, playing her latest, "Rags", drew the largest crowds which ever swarmed into the Bijou theater. She played here last Sunday and the two following days.

"Morals of Marcus" Here Wednesday

"The Morals of Marcus," a picture recently shown here with great success is being brought back to the Bijou for a purpose. Marie Doro is the star of the production and she is now engaged in making the greatest picture she ever acted in. The name of the film has not been announced here. The star is new. See "The Morals of Marcus" again, and then watch for her latest vehicle.

"Near a Lady," with Elsie Janus, once a footlight star, but now devoted to the screen for life, plays next Friday and for the balance of the week at the Third street theater.

"The Secret Orchard,"—Blanch Sweet

Blanch Sweet, who made hundreds love her in "Stolen Goods," recently seen here, is scheduled for her latest and best production at the Bijou, Sunday, October 10. The picture is "The Stolen Orchard."

Two other top-notch pictures which will soon appear at the Bijou are "The Marriage of Kitty," with Fanny Ward, and Helene of the North," with Marguerite Clark.

Casino Offers Metros

The Casino is offering a solid week of Metro films. Those who saw Ann Murdock in the Frohman production, "A Royal Family," pronounced it one of the best pictures of the year. The picture spoke volumes for the future of the Metro service. Four of the best Metro pictures shown at the Casino are being brought back for one day each.

Here's what a "real" fan sent the Metro company. Dope it out yourself and you'll find every big Metro picture ever produced.

"CORRA, who had HER OWN WAY, went down THE HIGH ROAD to meet FIGHTING BOB, and he took THE FLAMING SWORD in his hand and swore to kill SATAN SANDERSON to be revenged for THE SHOOTING OF DAN MCGREW. However, THE VAMPIRE OF THE DAN FAMILY and always wore the insignia of THE SECOND IN COMMAND wanted to see THE SHADOWS OF A GREAT CITY, and as she was ALWAYS IN THE WAY her parents let her go with THE COWBOY AND THE LADY to see MARSE COVINGTON IN THE SEALED VALLEY, and there try to make HER GREAT MATCH. But WHEN A WOMAN LOVES someone else as she did, and having THE HEART OF A PAINTED WOMAN besides, it is hard to get THE RIGHT OF WAY over THE BRIDGE or THE BIGGER MAN, who stands between her and THE MIDDLEMAN, whom she loves, chiefly because she is regarded as AN ENEMY TO SOCIETY. But he said to her, 'GREATER LOVE HATH NO MAN, and if you have THE SOUL OF A WOMAN, you will buy you a hat with FOUR FEATHERS ON IT.' This enthusiastic fan has incorporated in the above the names of every Metro picture from the first release to the very last."

John Sampolis and Ethel Kaufmann in "Wormwood" at the Majestic

proceeds realized from the pictures go to the afflicted soldiers of the German empire. This arrangement was made with the kaiser on the only terms by which he would allow the pictures to be taken. Of all war movies, Chicago newspapers concede them to be the best.

"The Song of Hate"

Vaudeville interrupts the even tenure of the motion pictures Sunday, and Monday and Tuesday they come back to their own at the Majestic in a Fox feature, "The Song of Hate," with Betty Nansen, Arthur Hoops and Dorothy Bernard. The picture is a society drama of today, based upon "La Tosca," by Sardou. It was produced by J. Gordon Edwards. Miss Nansen is called "The actress who speaks with her eyes."

"Wormwood"

"Wormwood," Marie Corelli's brilliant work will be presented at the Majestic Wednesday and Thursday. The cast is made up of all Broad-

"Goodies!"

"—goodies that just m-e-l-t in your mouth—light, fluffy, tender cakes, biscuits and doughnuts that just keep you hanging 'round the pantry—all made with Calumet—the safest, purest, most economical Baking Powder. Try it—drive away bake-day failures."

"Tribby," shown at the Majestic Wednesday and Thursday was pronounced a great picture.

SCHOOLS CELEBRATE GERMAN VICTORIES

DRESDEN, Oct. 8.—A Saxon school teacher named Schultz describes in the Saechsische Schulzeitung how German victories are celebrated in his school for girls. "At the last celebration of victory," he writes, "I spoke to them for two hours. The children then sang a number of patriotic songs. And, as good luck would have it, the same day there came into my hands the Duerer bund map, 'East Prussia's Need,' and the poems of Rudolf Herzog, which furnished excellent material to read to the children. After two hours I said to the girls: 'God has given us a great victory. Our fathers and brothers have fought and bled for us, and what have we now? Go home to your mothers and say that you will never forget what your fathers and brothers have done for us. And promise to give twice as much pleasure as formerly, to help, to work, to show that you are a German girl. Promise me that.' And then they all shook my hand with an almost masculine gesture, and yet they were only 10-year-old girls."

NERVOUS EXHAUSTION

Irritability, oversensitiveness, a disposition to worry over trifles, headache, dizziness—these are symptoms of nervous exhaustion, neurasthenia.

Very often the patient feels best and brightest at night. Rest seems to bring no refreshment, the nervous system fails to recuperate. This distressing condition is caused by worry more often than by any other one thing. Overwork and worry invite the disorder.

The treatment is one of nutrition of the nerve cells, requiring a non-alcoholic tonic. As the nerves get their nourishment from the blood the treatment must be directed towards building up the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and with proper regulation of the diet have proved of the greatest benefit in many cases of neurasthenia. A tendency to anemia, or bloodlessness, shown by most neurasthenic patients, is also corrected by these tonic pills. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail at 50 cents per box; six boxes $2.50. Begin the treatment at once before your condition becomes chronic.

Two useful books, "Diseases of the Nervous System," and "What to Eat and How to Eat," will be sent free by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., if you mention this paper.

MARINE CONCERT A BIG SUCCESS

La Crosse Puts Stamp of Approval Upon United States Marine Band Playing Yesterday

(By Isidor Tippmann.)

The United States Marine band, Conductor W. H. Santelmann, appeared in a matinee and evening concert at the theater yesterday.

The afternoon program contained light and pleasing music, excellently presented. The evening program was a veritable cluster of musical gems and no more fascinating program of band music has ever been offered in a concert in La Crosse. Compositions and extracts from works of distinguished composers of Germany, France, Italy, Hungary, Austria, England and Russia with the final march, "The President," by a member of the band, made a melodic and harmonious menu to please the taste of the most exacting musical gourmand. Whether the United States Marine band is the foremost military band in the world, the writer is not prepared to say, as there are a few he has not been fortunate enough to hear, but our president's band is good enough to fill every American's heart with pride and La Crosse music lovers put the stamp of most hearty approval on the manner in which the talented musicians met the technical and musical demands of the music presented. It was pleasant to note the absolute concentration and unswerving sincerity with which the musicians followed the interpretative intentions of the conductor. It is hardly necessary to speak of the fine tone quality exhibited in the different sections of the band, nor of the finely balanced ensemble, as without these two attributes in perfection the organization could lay no claim to real musical distinction. Encores were demanded and granted after every program number, which made the concert somewhat long.

The soloists of the evening concert, Mr. Witcomb, cornetist, and Mr. Steel, flutist, distinguished themselves as masters of their instruments.

Mr. Santelmann, the conductor, guides his men in a manner which is free from all affectation and pleases by its firmness and surety.

The attendance at both concerts left much to be desired, but the blame must not be put on the many local lovers of music, who were absent. We had our daily rain, of course, and the musically indifferent had the umbrellas of the musical enthusiasts and so the poor souls had to stay at home.

The evening program follows: Ambrose Charles Louis Thomas, 1811-1896, France

Overture "Mignon," France

Anton Gregoriewich Rubenstein, 1829-1892, Russia

Cradle dance of the Bride of Kaschmir, from Ballet "Fenamor," Russia

Heinrich Hoch, 1845-1896, Germany

Cornet solo, Grand Fantasia, "The Pearl of the Ocean," Germany

Mr. Witcomb, 1825-1899, Austria

Waltz, "On the Beautiful Blue Danube," Austria

Ermanno Wolf-Ferrari, 1876, Italy

ITALIAN PRAISES AUSTRIAN RULE IN TRENTINO DISTRICT

MILAN, Oct. 8.—The cool reception that the "redeemed" populace of the countries of Gortz and Gradisca had given their deliverers, the Italian soldiers, is discussed in the Milan Avanti. There were many who were loyal to Austria.

A characteristic episode is told of the mayor of Capobetto. When the Italian troops entered the city the mayor went to the commander and said:

"We trust that the Italian government will treat us with just as great kindness as the Austrian government."

That was not meant ironically. Austria treated the peasant population of the Trentino so well that they did not bother themselves at all about politics. They were given reforms, irrigation canals, which in a few years transformed the country into a paradise; plentiful credit, facilities of every kind for the farmer, district dispensaries for the sick, relief for the working people and, above all, few and moderate taxes.

TARIFF MEASURES PROBABLE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—In addition to retaining the tariff on sugar, as formally announced for the administration today by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, further changes are contemplated by President Wilson. General revision of the Wilson-Underwood law is not contemplated, but considerable change in existing schedules are seriously considered.

Increase of tariff on whisky, beer and tobacco, are among the revenue measures in sight. Reduction of the exemption limit on the inheritance tax, to reach incomes probably as low as $2,000 or even $1,500 a year is suggested.

BEST LIVER AND BOWEL LAXATIVE FOR FAMILY USE

"Cascarets" regulate women, men and children without injury.

Take when bilious, head-achy, for colds, bad breath, sour stomach.

Instead of nasty, harsh pills, salts, castor oil or dangerous calomel, why don't you keep Cascarets handy in your home? Cascarets act on the liver and thirty feet of bowels so gently you don't realize you have taken a cathartic, but they act thoroughly and can be depended upon when a good liver and bowel cleansing is necessary—they move the bile and poison from the bowels without griping and sweeten the stomach. You eat one or two at night like candy and you wake up feeling fine, the headache, biliousness, bad breath, coated tongue, sour stomach, constipation, or bad cold disappears. Mothers should give cross, sick, feverish or bilious children a whole Cascaret any time—they are harmless and safe for the little folks.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEAN KIDNEYS

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active. Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

BIOGRAPHY PAPERS ARE DENOUNCED BY CLUBS' SPEAKER

Study the Works and Not the Lives of Authors Is Mrs. Winter's Advice to Convention

PREDICTS BIG MODERN ART

We Are Just Emerging from the Chaotic Period of Formation to Big Things Is Her Belief

"I wish there were no such thing as a written paper. Read your poetry or other literature aloud and discuss it to get the true value of it. If you are struck with the melody of 'Sweet and Low,' the wonderful charm of it, what difference does it make where Tennyson was born? Shakespeare and Homer were lucky because no history of their life survived them. We are forced to study their works."

MRS. D. G. WINTER, Minneapolis.

Club methods as old as the first woman's club came in for a lashing at the afternoon session of the Federated club convention yesterday when Mrs. D. G. Winter of Minneapolis discussed the relation of literature and life. With well-chosen examples of musical verse, ancient and modern, she sought to show the intrinsic beauty of poetry, the eternal value of proper prose. There was punch in her denunciation of average club methods of attempting to understand the message of an author by studying his biography, and other cut and dried methods of literary study.

Don't Study By Blocks of Thought
"Don't study by blocks of thought," Mrs. Winter urged. Don't take up literature by the period of the century. Study instead the great currents of human thought. Take the notable things in every line and see how they have affected civilization down through the ages, in every country and at every date."

The modern world is on the verge of doing great things along new lines of literary art, Mrs. Winter declared. She quoted Ruskin that every creative period is preceded by a period of chaos. We are now beginning to emerge, she declared from our chaotic stage. As an example, she said, poetry, a few years ago unsalable, is now sought by publishers.

"Poetry," Mrs. Winter said, "is the nearest to the heart of all our forms of literary expression. It is the form we need most in the United States, perhaps. It must be learned by heart to get its proper value. It cannot be appreciated when only read. It needs the force of the spoken word, for words were intended primarily to be spoken. But we must teach our children only good poetry."

Urges Study of Slav Art

An appeal to study of the literature and music of southern and Slavic Europe was also a feature of Mrs. Winter's address. She pointed out that the Teutonic and Anglo-Saxon immigration to this country is at a low ebb and that our greatest additions come from Italy and the Slavic nations.

"How are we going to assimilate these people and make them proper

LOCAL DEEDS ARE TOLD TO CIVICS CLUB CONFERENCE

Miss Marie Peterson, Visiting Nurse, Asked Many Questions About Accomplishments of City

SEES NEED OF NATIVE ART

Wife and Mother of Artists Gives Interesting Talk Amid Pictures in the State Exhibit

Yesterday afternoon's session of the club convention was devoted, following the address of Mrs. D. E. Winter of Minneapolis, to a series of departmental conferences, in which all of the many branches of work conducted by the clubwomen gathered their devotees about their chairmen and discussed past work and future plans.

Miss Peterson Talks
At the civics conference—perhaps the largest in attendance of any—Miss Marie Peterson, visiting nurse of the La Crosse health department, was one of the chief speakers. Miss Peterson told of the school examinations and school dental work which has been promised by the local tooth-surgeons. She described the infant welfare station and other notable accomplishments of La Crosse for public health. An avalanche of questions as to ways and means followed her description of what has been done here, and she was kept busy answering queries for nearly half an hour.

In the church parlors on the lower floor of the First Congregational church there was meanwhile in progress a highly interesting discussion of home economics, led by Mrs. R. B. Johnsons and Mrs. Anna L. Meredith. Domestic Science teachers from Milwaukee Downer college and Stevens Point normal school, as well as the chairman, spoke. They told how to tell woolen cloth from cotton; how to detect adulteration in food; how to solve family problems. More than fifty women were in the interested audience that listened to their remarks, asking questions and taking notes.

Press Conference Lively

In the little kitchen of the church was conducted one of the liveliest sessions of the conference period—the press conference. Mrs. A. H. Shoemaker, Eau Claire, presided, and she made a report of the work that has been done the past year and asked for suggestions. Miss Lura G. Dow, Palmyra, Wis., editor of the Palmyra Enterprise and secretary of the State Press association, who is a delegate to the convention, took the floor to give advice, and with a local newspaperman who dropped in by accident and was asked for suggestions, gave the newspaper attitude to the clubwomen. News while it is fresh, with names in it, was Americans unless we understand the great passionate forces that have made them?" she asked. "We must learn to respect them. But how are we to do that unless we learn something about the music without which a Slav does no little bit of work, or the great forces which have controlled Italy for hundreds of years?"

WOMAN RESCUES A DROWNING BUTLER WHEN 25 MEN BATHERS FAIL TO AID

Mrs. Trowbridge Callaway.

Twenty-five or more men bathers looked at each other in helpless confusion when a cry for help was heard on the beach at Spring Lake, N. J. About 150 feet off shore another man was floundering in the water. Suddenly a woman came running down the beach, leaped into the water dressed in her street clothes, and dragged the drowning man ashore. The woman was Mrs. Trowbridge Callaway, whose husband is a business partner of Stuyvesant Fish. The man she saved was Avel Bensen, a neighbor's butler.

the thing to be sought, the press section was told.

Not that interesting section was the art committee's conference conducted amid the Wisconsin painters' exhibit in the public library. The chairman of the committee, Mrs. R. J. Wenker read a report which told how the Wisconsin painters' exhibit came to be started, and how it could be secured for any club. Following the chairman's report, Mrs. Adolph Schulz of Delavan, wife and mother of artists and a painter herself, was introduced.

Glancing about at the pictures which line the room in which the conference was held, Mrs. Schulz began:

Native Art a Need
"A native art is a real need," she said. "Not that I would have you overlook a great Corot or Millet—it is your right to buy them—but there is a real need that is only filled by a native art, and it ought to be supported. Art of a different country, particularly from a different race, does not express our ideals, any more than we express foreign ideals. Our art is the expression of our national individualism, just as the Japanese art, for instance, expresses the submergence of self, the conventionality which is the Japanese ideal."

Would Be a Boon.
Any guy who would invent something effective to take the cut out of the cutworm would be sure of everlasting fame.—Boston Globe.

Causes of Strange "Worries."

How many times have you heard people say, "I know something is going to happen." They belong to that class of humans who seem to keep in a chronic state of worry for which there is no apparent reason. Now, when you hear a person say the above quoted words, make up your mind that the cause is usually not "something that is going to happen," but something that has actually happened, or is happening, in the patient's own system. It may be a badly working liver, or a weak heart, or any of the organs, or, perhaps, some difficulty in the intestinal tract. The disorder may not give direct evidence of its existence, but still be responsible for this apparently causeless worry.

HELP THE BLIND TO HELP THEMSELVES WISCONSIN MOTTO

Miss Ada Turner Tells La Crosse People Right Way to Give Blind Place in the World

PLENTY OF WORK THEY CAN DO

Quest of State Is Not Charity but Suitable Employment for Sightless Wisconsin Workers

It was under the tuition of Miss Turner, who has charge of the blind exhibit at the Women's convention, that Walter Goetzinger, La Crosse's marvelous blind musician, received his school education. Mr. Goetzinger spent an hour at the exhibit yesterday and had a pleasant chat with his former instructor.

"If we could persuade employers of labor in this state to allow us to come into their establishments and pick out positions that could be filled by blind people, and then allow us to select the blind people for these positions, we could accomplish much more than we now do for the blind, and these employers would soon lose the feeling they seem to entertain that a blind person is handicapped, has not the ability to take care of himself nor to work skillfully." Miss Ada Turner, field worker for the state school for the blind at Janesville, told a reporter Thursday afternoon. "We do not ask charity for our blind students," she said; "Our motto is, 'Help the blind to help themselves.' There are a large number of positions in factories and other establishments that could be just as creditably filled by blind people as by those who have the aid of sight." She cited a number of cases to prove her statement, declaring that switchboards with the drop system, positions in condenseries and stenographers can all be filled by blind people. Stenographers take dictation by means of the dictaphone and are taught to use the typewriter at the school, which is operated at the expense of the state.

The exhibit of the state school at the convention of the Federation of Women's clubs at the Congregational church is attracting more attention than any other exhibit, showing a diversity of work of such beauty of design and skill of workmanship as to be almost unbelievable under the circumstances.

Chief of many articles, both from the domestic science and manual arts classes, is a large circular center-piece made by Miss Gusti Merten, a graduate of the institution, now residing on a farm near Janesville. The work was declared to be superior even to the work of those blessed with sight. The school has recently organized an industrial exchange, with a view to selling the finished product of the alumni. Orders are taken by Miss Turner, whose special duty it is to procure positions for the graduate and to ascertain the ability with which the duties of these positions are discharged, as well as to solicit students.

BELL TAKES STAND

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 8.—Mayor Joseph E. Bell took the stand Thursday as first defense witness in the trial in which he is charged with conspiring with Thomas Taggart, Chief of Police Perrott and 125 others to corrupt the Marion county elections of 1914. The state rested at 9:30 after having consumed three weeks by its evidence.

SAVE YOUR HAIR! 25 CENT BOTTLE STOPS DANDRUFF

Every bit of dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

Try this! Your hair appears glossy, abundant, wavy and beautiful.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scarf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; and what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

cles from the manual training department, together with samples of the work of the students in typewriting as well as the text books used in the institution.

The students are taught to read with the New York Point type, where the student's instruction in this line is begun at a tender age, whereas in the case of an adult student, the Moon raised type is used. Two other types of text books were exhibited, although not in use at the Janesville school. In reading, the student reads from left to right on the first line, and the second line from right to left, to prevent his losing his place. His fingers are guided from line to line by the use of brackets placed at the left of each line.

Musical Not Neglected

Besides the commercial and industrial courses given in the school, instruction is given in vocal, instrumental, orchestral, and pipe organ music. The school boasts of an orchestra of about twenty-five pieces, led by Herbert Adams, an alumnus.

Then, too, there is a school library of more than 200 volumes, used by both present students and alumni. Notification by the graduates to the school authorities of their desire for a certain book brings the book through the mails without charge by the government. The books, three and four times as large as those used by normal people, are encased in snug-fitting canvas bags, made by the students themselves, and containing a card case with a card bearing the name of the school on the one side and that of the graduate on the other. The graduate is enabled to return the book without any outside aid by merely reversing the card.

The National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness, with headquarters in New York, has printed pamphlets at the exhibit, embracing the striking message, "Take care of your eyes. Your eyes are your breadwinners."

To Convince Public

Miss Turner has been field worker for the school for the past three years, having held the position of physical director of the institution for ten years previous. She declared that she would return to La Crosse within a year to hold a sale of the products of the students and graduates of the school. The exhibit, brought here by the Women's clubs, is primarily to gain public recognition of the work of the school, its work and its possibilities, and to bring the people of the state into closer touch with the institution, to eradicate the gap between the two.

The school is operated by the state of Wisconsin, and is open to students between the ages of 5 and 21, with board and tuition free. The sessions commence in September and the students are returned to their homes in June for the summer vacation as well as the Christmas holidays. Instruction is given in domestic science, typewriting, basketry, re-seating of chairs, piano tuning, mattress and broom making, and the subjects mentioned before. Last year the school had an enrollment of 136. Upon graduation, the student is given a diploma, as well as certificates of completion of the subordinate courses.

KNIGHTS OF CHESS MEET AT NORMAL

The Honorable Knights of the Chess Table, as they dub themselves, organized at the normal yesterday. However, one queen assembled with the would-be kings. They elected Kenneth Scott majestic king of the organization, William Gates, king's bishop, or, as we might call it, secretary, and Alois Engelhard, king's knight to provide for the monetary affairs of the table. The kings knight will immediately set out on his hazardous quest for two bits from each co-knight in order that prizes may be procured for three tournaments which will be held in the course of the season. Armor will be buckled on, helmets adjusted, and the battles over the tables will be started immediately.

DRESSBACH WOMAN TAKES JOB AS A SECTION FOREMAN

Mrs. Garret Humfelt Leaves Pots and Pans for Job Bossing Gang of Men on Milwaukee Road

DRESSBACH, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special.)—Mrs. Garret Humfelt, a resident of Dressbach, will desert her broom and dishpan. She has taken the job of section boss at Newport, Minn., on the Milwaukee railroad, and will boss a gang of men in the art of laying steel and keeping the roadbed in repair.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Horner left on Wednesday morning in their auto for their home in Pierce, S. D., after spending the summer at their Dressbach summer cottage.

Miss Maud Boyd, Miss Bell Boyd and her mother, Mrs. A. M. Langdon, broke up their summer home and left for La Crosse on Tuesday. Miss May Aiken was a week end guest of Miss Maud Boyd at River-view cottage.

Mrs. E. Eckhart is entertaining her son and family, who autored out from Chicago.

Mrs. T. Kemp spent a few days in La Crosse last week, the guest of her sister, Miss G. Langdon.

Mrs. E. Eckhart has improved her home very much by the addition of a nice wide porch across the front and south sides.

Vilas Horner autored up for Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Horner.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Culver, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schools, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Donaldson motored to La Crosse last week to attend the fair.

Miss Louise Burk is visiting her uncle at Nodine for a week.

There will be services at the St. James church next Sunday conducted by Dr. Helmer.

The Methodists have a new minister, Rev. Herman has been transferred to Stockholm, Minn.

Mrs. George Phillips of La Crosse spent last week with her sister, Mrs. Ernest Horner.

Mrs. Robert Faucet, who has been quick sick, is improving and we hope to see her out again soon.

Mrs. L. Wing and daughter, Mildred left last week for their southern home after spending the summer at the Marsh home.

Miss Pearl Hammer and Miss Wood spent Saturday and Sunday in Winona.

Harry Horner, Jr. left Monday for Ann Arbor, Mich., where he is pursuing the study of law.

The Farmers' Co-operative company of La Crosse shipped a car of stock from here last Friday.

William Nesulke and William Dixon made a trip to La Crosse Tuesday.

Peter Dixon is confined to his home by a severe attack of rheumatism.

Mrs. Omo caught another big bass off the dam yesterday.

Andrew Rausch has a new porch on his house. Greatly to its improvement.

Si Thompson fell off the barn last week and broke his axe handle.

Gilbert Johnson is up from La Crosse this week looking after his crops.

The D. H. Baker family of La Crosse, spent Sunday at their summer home.

Mr. John Glenn made another shipment of apples to St. Paul this week.

High School Haps

Anxiety of supporters of the Booster, official high school paper, relative to its fate, was minimized this morning at the announcement of Principal B. E. McCormick, that in all probability the publication would be continued. Its continuance hinges upon the circulation, 500 subscribers being the aim of the school principal. To date, some 460 students have signed subscription blanks.

Mr. Collinge of the faculty is assisting the circulation department. Almost forty dollars was cleared by the staff last year.

The Freshmen of the high school are live ones. With Miss Mashek as class advisor, they have organized sooner than any other class in school. At a meeting last night the following officers were elected: President—Roy Taylor; vice president, Earl Gutzke; secretary, Margaret Musheid; treasurer, Eleanor Runckle. Committees were appointed to name the class colors and motto.

The Latin, German and French classes have shown an increase this year; history is about the same, while science is becoming more and more popular, especially chemistry.

Pertinent Question.

A New York man who says he is thinking of getting married and in the last year has visited quite a number of young ladies, complains that all seemed pretty much alike—same dress, same pose, same remarks. "Now," he says, "as I do not want my wife to be a mere copy or echo of others, I should like to know if there is anything original in the way of a girl nowadays, and if so, where is she to be found?" How original is the young man himself?—Exchange.

sists of ten charter members and two honorary members who are not members of the normal faculty or student body but who will, nevertheless, compete with the students. The charter members are Alta Wein, Kenneth Scott, Troy Thompson, David Moore, Alois Engelhard, J. R. Moore, A. J. Lewis, J. M. Bridgman, A. M. Hill and William Gates. The two honorary knights are Arthur Ulrich and Doctor J. W. Hedderich.

AT ADVANCED AGE WOMAN RECOVERS FROM ASTHMA

MRS. ELIZABETH COLCLAZIER.

At the age of 72 years, Mrs. Elizabeth Colclazier, W. Main St., Greenfield, Ind., states that she has been relieved of the asthma and writes on August 25, 1915, that she is feeling fine and gaining weight.

On May 12, Mrs. Colclazier wrote: "I know that Nature's Creation has done me a wonderful lot of good. I suffered for a long time from asthma and heart trouble. Had several good doctors, but got no better until I commenced to take Nature's Creation. I now feel better than for a long time and weigh 140 pounds; eat and sleep fine."

We have any number of letters on file and open to the public telling of the startling results accomplished by Nature's Creation in treatment of tuberculosis and conditions leading to it, such as asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, impure blood and run-down system.

Everybody should learn the truth about this remarkable remedy which we will gladly furnish. Write for a copy of our new booklet, "Truth," containing photos and testimonials of former sufferers. Address Elmer Haelein, 32 Sentinel Bldg., Milwaukee, Wis. Nature's Creation is not a patent medicine and is not sold in drug stores. Beware of substitutes—demand the original and genuine Nature's Creation. Watch for Nature's Creation testimonials, which will appear in this paper every Friday.

The Misses Mary and Elizabeth Garland.

The daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Garland, of Washington, are to be much made of in capital society this coming season. Miss Mary is to be one of the season's debutantes and Miss Elizabeth is to become the bride of Mr. George Wharton Edwards, of Bethlehem, Pa., on November 24. The Garlands are one of Washington's oldest families and live in a handsome old house in the Georgetown section of the capital city.

USE OF ENGINES IMPORTANT FACTOR

BERLIN, Oct. 8.—In an interesting interview Privy Councillor von Borsig, the head of the largest locomotive works in Germany, tells how locomotives have helped to win German victories in the war. "The efforts of the government in times of peace," he says, "to have a large number of locomotives at hand proved very effective at the outbreak of the war. The other warring countries in this respect were not so well equipped as Germany. When the war began many of the men in our factories were called to the colors, and while formerly we did not employ any women we now have 900. The families of our employees in the war are supported by us. The Borsig factory received large war orders for locomotives."

CHICAGO LIQUOR INTERESTS MAY SUE

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Officials of the United Societies and other liquor interests, opposed to Mayor Thompson's thunderbolt Sunday closing edict, went to New York today to confer with national officials of brewery and distillers' organizations regarding possible court action to prevent enforcement of the long unenforced state statute which forbids Sunday liquor sales. It was hinted that the United Societies would sue for an injunction some time Saturday.

FRANKLIN CLUB STAMPS O. K. ON ALLIED WAR LOAN

Debating Team Upholding Right of Loan Takes First Debate of Season Held at Fjelstad Hall

HARRY ROBINSON ELECTED HEAD

Incumbent of Position for Past Two Years Is Again Honored; Downey Elected Club Vice President

That the billion dollar war loan to the allies is proper and that it is strictly a neutral proposition is the opinion of Franklin club members, who last night took the loan as the subject for the opening debate of their season. Harry Robinson, for two terms president of the debating society, was again elected to head the Franklin club. The debate was held at Fjelstad hall. Although only a score attended the debate, the fact did not seriously affect the argumentative propensities of the debaters, who waged a spirited verbal battle over the attitude which the people of the United States should take toward all war loans to the belligerent nations of Europe. The people of the United States, as represented by the Franklin club jury, are not averse to loaning immense sums of money to the belligerents, but favor the proposition, basing their decision on the facts that it would not affect our neutrality, it would not affect the sale of war munitions by the private ammunition factories of the country, and that it would be a sound business venture, undertaken, not by the national government, but by private financiers.

W. E. Barber Argues

The affirmative was upheld by Roy Ahlstrom and H. L. Taylor, while Harry Robinson and W. E. Barber argued successfully that the question as read should be defeated. "W. E. Barber voiced the sentiment of Theodore Roosevelt when he declared that there was too much 'hyphenated Americanism.' He said there was no logical reason why loans should not be made to the belligerent nations of Europe by the private American financiers, and that the ladies of La Crosse had very little argument to bring about peace, declaring that it could not be attained until the crowned heads of the European governments were removed."

Mahoney Says "Foolish"

P. W. Mahoney characterized a refusal of the loans as "foolish" from a business standpoint, and argued that if such loans were made, our neutrality would not be affected.

The question, "Resolved, that President Wilson be renominated and re-elected," will be discussed at the next weekly meeting, to be held next Thursday evening.

The officers elected last night are: Harry Robinson, president; M. M. Downey, vice president; Roy Ahlstrom, secretary; J. F. Saltz, treasurer; H. G. Hayden, regent; H. L. Taylor, sergeant-at-arms. Two ballots were necessary to elect Mr. Downey to the vice presidency.

The officers of the club whose terms expired last night were, Harry Robinson, president; Roy Ahlstrom, vice president; J. G. Dubraks, secretary; J. F. Saltz, treasurer; H. G. Hayden, regent.

Ways to Break It

His teacher was having a hard time explaining the lesson.

"Tommy, you can learn this if you make up your mind. It's not one bit smart to appear dull. I know that you are just as bright as any boy in the class. Remember, Tommy, where there's a will there's a way."

"Aw, broke in Tommy. 'I know all dat. I do. Me fadder's a lawyer, an' I heard him say it lots o' times.'"

"You should not have interrupted me, but I am glad your father has taught you the old adage. Can you repeat it to me?"

"Sure. Me fadder says that where there's a will der's always a bunch o' poor relatives."—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

MILLENNIUM-OLD RELICS RUINED BY BIG SHELLS

Huge Shells Tear Up Tomb and Weird Evidences of Ancient Times Are Unearthed

BY WILBUR S. FORREST
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Sept. 20.—(By mail.)—Even the dark silent past fails to escape the ravages of war on Gallipoli peninsula, writes a French surgeon to his English wife, describing shell-havoc on the ancient sarcophagi within sight of Achi Baba. He said:

"A huge '210' shell has just fallen in front of a sepulchre, shut twenty centuries ago. The stone door burst open, revealing a room in which one could live, constructed with great regularity and lined with perfectly cut stones. Only a few bones were inside and they turned to dust."

"While digging close by, two enormous earthen jars were found. They had been set side by side. One is broken and the other intact. In each jar is a skull and the remnants of a skeleton. Man and wife! They have slept together for twenty centuries. What profanation; what a crime to have interrupted a design which promised to be immortal."

A subsequent letter, received with the first, adds:

"The bravest man in the whole regiment, Adjutant G— was killed this morning. He was watching the Turkish soldiers, in their trenches, through his field glasses, at a loophole in the first line. They were only 100 metres away. A bullet passed through the loophole killing him instantly. It was he who was decorated on June 4 by General Gouraud for having killed six Turks with his own hand and capturing a machine gun."

"The body of G— had been left in a corner of Morto cemetery. I went myself to superintend the flagging of the grave. Nobody was there to render a last homage or fire a salute. The regiment was too much occupied and too far away. So I asked for volunteers close by. Men came from the kitchens, from the machine gun section and from the artillery. Their uniforms were dirty, their guns rusty. A sergeant of the Territorials gave the traditional commands. The little ceremony was not badly done."

"The season is rapidly changing," adds the surgeon. "The Gallipoli sky, which was always a limpid blue and virgin of the smallest cloud, has been quite changed for the past ten days. It is going to rain and it will turn cold. We are thinking of winter, and have begun to prepare winter quarters."

Remembering a Name.

Two women who were picking out the wall paper for an apartment had made some progress, but had not finished when it was time for luncheon. The salesman had been obliging and expeditious, and on the way out the customers asked the name of the manager, so they could call for his services later. His name was Sheridan, and they decided to clinch it by thinking of "Sheridan's Ride." Two hours later they returned and said they would like to see Paul Revere.

Faulty Educational System.

An hour's inquiry into the various tests which are put today to judge the extent of a child's education will convince one that the main object of our schools is to cultivate an automatic efficiency in what can only be termed the mechanical departments of the brain. It is the exact opposite of what education in its real sense ought to produce.—Exchange.

dul Hamid did in thirty years. And Abdul Hamid was known as the "Great Butcher," and the "Red Sultan."

This statement was made today by Miss Emily C. Wheeler, secretary of the National Armenian and India Relief association, an organization which since 1895 has been active in mission work in Turkish Armenia. Information on which her statement was based was given her by a missionary, an American physician just returned from Turkey. Miss Wheeler, herself, spent sixteen years in Armenia and was there during the massacre of 1895.

"German officers are active in the Armenian persecutions," continued Miss Wheeler, "according to stories told me by my missionary friends. Certain classes of Turks are not in sympathy with the horrible outrages, but they dare not protest as the movement is being directed from Constantinople."

"Out of the Armenian nation of 1,500,000 people, 800,000 have been killed or deported. The Ottoman government is waging a campaign of extermination. This is evident from the slaughter and is further indicated by the statement of the governor of Van, made in November, 1914, that the government intended to kill every Armenian, even down to the babies, to rid Turkey forever of the 'Armenian question.'"

"They have succeeded so well in some villages there is not even a sign of life left. The entire district of Tiflis has been leveled by fire. Women have been scorched, scalded and beaten to death. Even the orphans in our missions have been deported. In the Van district alone 57,000 Armenians were killed in August."

"One of the young women attached to the Van mission has been missing since July. She is a Miss McLaren, an American, who volunteered to serve in the Red Crescent, the Turkish Red Cross. She disappeared when the Turks fled before the Russian soldiers. She is probably dead. Another instance is that of Sister Martha, a German woman, who fled with fifty orphans from the savage Kurds in July. Nothing has been heard of them."

"Those who managed to escape death are suffering indescribable

"Y. W." Board Meets
The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Young Women's Christian Association will be held in the association building at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon.

Examine For Board
Professor F. H. Fowler and Professor Harry Spence are holding examinations at the court today for members of the barbers' division of the State Board of Health. Only a few are taking the examinations.

Superstition in Roumania.
The Roumanian is superstitious. He has popular tales that mark the red-headed man and the man without a mustache as strange characters who are sure to work mischief. In some parts of the country there are still old pagan beliefs in witches. Many old semibarbaric customs remain, as, for instance, that of burying the dead with uncovered faces. In some parts of the country a flower is painted on the wall of a cottage wherein lives a girl of marriageable age.

tortures from starvation. The government hinders all outside aid and will do nothing to relieve conditions.

"Of the 270,000 Armenians who started for Russia over 100,000 died of typhus. There are 60,000 Armenians serving in the Russian army. This, and the fact that there are a handful of Armenian revolutionists stirring up trouble, are the excuses offered by the government for the persecutions."

The physician said a former Princeton man killed at Harpoot was Professor Vorperian, an Armenian who graduated from Princeton twenty years ago. He was executed for alleged participation in the "revolution."

Miss Wheeler said funds for the National Armenian and India Relief association work are urgently needed.

COFFEE A NARCOTIC AND DOPE WITH OPIUM

Well known medical writer declares coffee, like opium, holds victims in pitiless grasp.

"I would like to make everyone thoroughly understand that coffee is a narcotic—a very strong narcotic, too," says Dr. C. S. Carr in a communication to the Ohio State Journal.

"There is no drug in the pharmacopoeia that has a more powerful effect upon the brain centres than coffee. Coffee is a dope and narcotic almost equal to opium. To be sure, it does not produce at once the mental disaster that opium does. Slowly but surely coffee gets control of its victim and holds him in its grasp, a pitiful, helpless victim."

NOTE—The food-drink. Instant Postum, while much resembling the higher grades of Java coffee in flavor and appearance, is absolutely free from the coffee drugs, caffeine and tannin, or any other harmful ingredient. Pure, wholesome, harmless, convenient, economical, this delicious hot beverage is rapidly taking the place of coffee in homes where health is a prime desideratum.

BIRTHDAY PARTY
Miss Dorothy Krenz entertained a few of her friends at her home, 1504 Winnebago street on the occasion of her eighth birthday. Various games were played. Little Miss Mildred Lockman rendered several piano selections. A dainty lunch was served.

Those present were: Mildred and Elizabeth Lockman, Louise Kienahs, Mabel Sturch, Helen Brunke, Harriet Frey, and Herbert Schnell.

HEGGE-GERHART
Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hegge of 321 Twenty-second street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Alma Violette to J. S. Gerhart of this city. The marriage took place in Minneapolis, October 5 at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. W. E. Bennett. Rev. E. Horn of the M. E. church performed the ceremony. The couple will reside in La Crosse after November 1.

MRS. OYEN ENTERTAINS
FOR SCHOOLMATES
Mrs. Oden J. Oyen entertained at a dinner Wednesday evening. The guests were old schoolmates, having attended the university at the same time. They were Mrs. Stensland, Mrs. Frisch, Mrs. Swenson of Madison, Mrs. Bessel of Milwaukee and Mrs. McNeely of Antigo.

TO GIVE DINNER
Mrs. E. G. Atkins will entertain at a dinner this evening. The guests will be Dr. and Mrs. Nell, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Holcomb, Mrs. E. E. Marston and Mr. and Mrs. Owen Horne.

BEYERS-JOHNSON
Miss Martha Beyers and Emil Johnson were married yesterday at the home of the bride's parents in Smith's Coulee. The ceremony took place at 3:30 and was performed by the Rev. Julius T. Gramm, pastor of the German Lutheran church of this city. There were about fifty guests present, mostly relatives.

The bride looked charming in a pretty white crepe meteor dress and carried white roses. The maid of honor, Miss Lena Beyers, a sister of the bride, wore a pink crepe meteor and carried pink roses. The best man was Peter Wendling. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will reside on South Eleventh street.

LINEN SHOWER
The Misses Barbara, Anna and Margaret Ott entertained at a linen shower last evening in honor of Miss Anna Dummer, who is to be an October bride. The rooms were prettily decorated with flowers and hearts, the color scheme being red and white. The evening was spent in music and games after which a good lunch was served. The invited guests were Anna, Mathilda and Dora Dummer, Hattie and Mary Miller, Frances and Mayme Poellinger, Mrs. W. Fuechser, Lenora Jaekel, Emma and Anna Horschak and Marie Wester.

SOCIAL BRIEFS
Mr. and Mrs. O. Converse of Janesville, who have been guests of friends here for a few days, have returned to their home.

Russell Cooper, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Cooper, residents of this city in the early days, is spending a few days here looking up some of his old boyhood friends. As it is thirty-eight years since Mr. Cooper left La Crosse, he finds very few of his friends left and sees a great many changes in the city.

Mrs. H. E. Getts of Whitehall is visiting Mrs. A. M. Heyerdahn, 300 North Eighth street. She expects to spend a week or ten days in La Crosse.

Mrs. John Papenfuss and children, Margaret, Katherine and Florence, of Tomah, spent Thursday in the city visiting her mother, Mrs. Anton Papenfuss, 410 North Tenth street.

AUTO BANDITS GET HAUL AT RACINE

RACINE, Wis., Oct. 8.—Automobile bandits invaded Lakeside, a suburb of Racine, Thursday night and entering the barroom of the Lakeside hotel, relieved nine patrons of about $100. While two of the men entered the place with drawn guns, a third man remained outside in an automobile. Louis Horvath, proprietor of the place, was relieved of $60 and A. Biro, a Chicago salesman, had to give up $20. The robbers secured small sums from the rest. One man attempted to escape, but was knocked to the floor with the butt of a revolver. After robbing the place the bandits jumped in the automobile and escaped.

Chamois Leather.

An expert correspondent reminds me of the millions of "chamois leathers" sold in England—and the "shammy leather" underclothing loved of women. It takes in Switzerland about one hunter to bag one chamois and a half in a week, remarks a writer in the London Mail. But the sheep comes in, with a skin easily split; and the inner side is "chamois," while the outer is merely leather. And after reading this curious letter from the leather expert I look inside my hat and reflect that one side of the sheep's cuticle has reached my exorbitant hatter, and the other side is polishing—literally—the office window.

Bait.

The attention of the taxi driver was called to a purse lying on the floor of his car. He carefully looked around and then remarked confidentially: "Well, sir, when business is bad I sometimes put it there and leave my door open. The purse is empty, of course, but you have no idea what a number of people jump in for a short drive. I've had five within the last hour, sir."

CROSSES CONTINENT AFOOT IN 80 DAYS

Robert Burns.

Anxious to see his old folks and relatives in Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, Robert Burns of Eureka, Cal., has just completed a 3,640 mile walk from the Pacific to the Atlantic, incidentally lopping off 32 days from the record for this feat which was set up by Edward Payson Weston, the famous septuagenarian walker.

WAR IS HARD ON THE ZOO ANIMALS

LONDON—(By mail.)—"The Big Show," (he meant the war), "has played the devil and all with the menagerie," confided the wild animal man on London dock, gazing ruefully pound-and-pence wise at a flock of twenty Yankee skunks, "unsellable though denatured."

"An' looka that camel; good worker, quiet, sound, well humped, grand flappy under lip; make any circus-going kids' eyes bulge. Yet can I sell him? Nup!"

A putty-nosed monkey, "rare," two foxes, "ones a cub;" two Rhesus, (say "zzzzzz" in the middle), monkeys, "extra-large;" three mangabays. "One white-whiskered and two sooty;" forty parrots, "assorted," and a Lapunda ape. He almost wept, with a weather eye out for a buyer. But he might as well have wept in peace, for buyers there are not since the war began.

FIRE DAMAGES SHIP

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 8.—The Empress of Britain, former Canadian Pacific liner, but commandeered by the government at the outbreak of the war, was towed back to port today, badly damaged by a fire of unknown origin that broke out as she was passing out of the Mersey late last night. "IT DOESN'T SEEM RIGHT, 'BERT BRALEY LAMENTS, TO SEE CONNIE'S PLAYERS OUTSIDE OF THE FENCE"

BY BERTON BRALEY
(Written for the United Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 8.—Somehow or other it doesn't seem right to start a world series this way with J. Franklin Baker secluded from sight and Collins clean out of the play; with Stuffy McInnis removed from the view and never a vision of Schang, or any at all of that Mackian crew, that glorious fence wrecking gang.

But soft, there is one of them greeteth us still, as classy and fast as of old, for out of the wreck of the Mackian mill the genial Barry was sold and now, with his legs wrapped in sox that are red and in Bostonese costume bedight, he plays for the glory of Boston instead—but somehow it doesn't seem right.

I know that the marvelous baseball machine which Connie had built up of yore was smashed by the Braves to the last smithereen and scattered in pieces galore; I know that the Red Sox have honestly won their place in this ultimate fight, but when all the talk and discussion is done—well, somehow it doesn't seem right.

It doesn't seem right that the series should start with the Mackian outfit not there, but it doesn't give me any sweetness of heart and I can't truly say that I care; in fact, like some thousands of fans whom I know, I'm tickled to death that it's so.

For its going to be fun—or at least so we hope, to go through a series without any "dope" to sit in a game where the cards are all new and we don't know what's what or exactly who's who, to figure what shade Smokey Joe has to earn, to hold Messrs. Killifer, Cravath and Byrne, and whether this G. Alexander the Great can freeze all the Bostonians bunch to the plate, or whether Tris Speaker and Hooper and Carigan will hammer his curves through the Ambient air again.

My guess on the winner? Well, putting it plain, I ain't got no guess, but I hope it won't rain!

GIANTS WIN JOKE GAME FROM BRAVES

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Giants 15; Boston 8

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—In a joke game that might have passed for golf almost as well as baseball, the Giants on Thursday beat the Boston Braves 15 to 8.

Davis for the Braves allowed twenty-four hits, and Stroud who pitched for the Giants, was clouted for seventeen. The score: R H E

New York . . . 020430015—15 24 0
Boston . . . 202020002—8 17 3
Batteries: Stroud and Koecher; Davis and Whaling.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Yanks 4; Red Sox 3

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—In the farewell game of the season here on Thursday the New York Americans won out in the ninth from Boston, 4 to 3. Both managers used sixteen men in the lineup. Gregg worked three innings and Collins pitched the remainder of the game for the Red Sox. The score: R H E
Boston . . . 102000000—3 8 0
New York . . . 000300001—4 8 0
Batteries: Gregg, Collins and Halcy; Brady, Vance, Shawkey, Schwerdt and Walters.

WEATHER NOT THE BEST FOR SERIES DISHED UP TODAY

National Commission, However, Rules That Game Should Be Played, Barring More Rain

THE SPECULATORS GET RICH

New York Exchange Scenes Are Eclipsed as Scalpers Hold Up Army of Fans

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 8.—A cold and gloomy day chased a dreary, chilly night out of Philadelphia. All night long a fine drizzle whipped by fitful gusts of wind galloped up and down the streets, driving everyone but the speculators into hotels.

This forenoon the sun apparently ashamed of himself, refused to be coaxed out and get-away day left much to be desired, climatically speaking.

It appeared certain, however, that the Red Sox and Phillies would clash as per schedule, barring unexpected upsets. Club officials were on the grounds at daybreak, looking over the field and squinting at the skies. After giving everything the up and down, including a shivering line of some 1,500 baseball nuts who stood before the ticket window, it was announced that a game would in all probability be played.

Officials privately expressed the opinion that a couple of barrels of row's game providing the weather man is in a conciliatory mood.

Philadelphia may gouge other aliens who desire to see her champions, but its bars are down everywhere for the nation's chief executive.

At 10:45 a. m. Old Sol poked his head through the leaden skies. The sudden ray of sunlight brought joy to the thousands of world's series fans who thronged the city.

Eleven to ten on Boston to win the series.
Two to one that Alexander wins the first game.
Ten to seven that if the Phillies fail to cop the first game they'll win the second.
Five to one that the winner has to go over four games to take the series.
Even money that the series doesn't go over six games.
Even money that one team doesn't win the first two games.
One freak bet of $300 to $200 was reported that the winner of the series will win four straight games.

KOLE FIGHTS HERE AFTER BEING AWAY FOR LONG SPELL

Local Boy Meets Thatcher of Milwaukee in Curtain Raiser to Kannia Show

Ad Wolgast vs. Jimmy Murphy, Milwaukee, 10 rounds at 135 pounds.
Tommy Krieg, Marshfield, vs. Anton, the Greek, Milwaukee, 10 rounds at 150 pounds.
Jimmy Kole, La Crosse, vs. Eddie Thatcher, Milwaukee, 10 rounds at 130 pounds.

Jimmy Kole, local boxer, for the first time in almost two years, will appear a week from tonight before local fans in the curtain raiser in the opening show of the Kannia Athletic club in Yeoman hall on King street. Kole has been fighting for some time throughout the northwest and has made an enviable name for himself. His opponent here will be Eddie Thatcher of Milwaukee. The boys are scheduled for ten rounds at 130 pounds at three o'clock the afternoon of the fight.

Ad Wolgast, ex-lightweight champion of the world, and one of the best liked pugns in the ring, will put on the main attraction with Jimmy Murphy of Milwaukee, a veteran of 78 fights and a ring general from a to z.

The Cadillac Wildcat is at present training for the bout at home, while Murphy is biding his time in O'Connell's gymnasium in Chicago, taking off a little surplus avoirdupois for the go, which he admits he expects to be the toughest of his career.

Murphy some time ago held Joe Mandot to a draw and has beaten Danny Goodman and Tommy Gary of Chicago.

Jimmy Krieg of Marshfield, who goes on in the semi-final with Anton, the Greek, is considered one of the best 150 pound men in the business. On September 16 at Appleton, he knocked out Jack Carney in the first round, although outweighed by ten pounds. Anton, the Greek, needs little introduction to any fight fan.

SECONDS TIGHTEN UP AND REGULARS ARE FOUGHT HARD

Puckett's Men Improve and Hold the First Team to Five Touch-downs

Scrimmage between the first and second squads tightened up somewhat Wednesday night, the regulars scoring five touchdowns in the time allowed. This was due to the fact that Coach Puckett's warriors, through additional signal practice and hard bumps with the third squad, are improving rapidly and before long, may be able to score on the first team, unless a like improvement is shown. That improvement on the part of the first team is to be expected and will without doubt prove itself in the Winona game.

Mr. Spence, the faithful, has had charge of the linemen, with Coach Horne working in the backfield for the past few days, in an effort to polish every part of the machine.

The green covering of the field at the beginning of practice, which was somewhat bothersome for a time on account of its length, at the end of five weeks of hard wear, trodden under many cleated shoes and heavy weights, has almost entirely disappeared, leaving a dull brown mixture of grit, which shows prominently on the suits and exposed portions of each player engaging in scrimmage.

Dummy Worked Hard
The tackling dummy has come into prominence during the week. A team of good tacklers, one in every position, can hold an opponent to small gains and many times heavy losses, the science of this point being one of more practice and less theory.

Team work, alert minds, quick sight, the sizing up of a situation and its solution, knowing what to do and where to be at the right moment—these make for a winning team. The 1915 bunch at the high school are out after the championship, and Madison is already sitting up and taking notice of the local team, counting them as their one big obstacle in the championship race.

Captain Reget was out in a suit Wednesday night, and ran through a few signals, but did not participate in any scrimmage work. A few days will see him back in the game as before. "Sonny" Roellig took charge of the pivot position and made a creditable showing.

Keep an open date for the Eau Claire game, played on the local gridiron October 23.

NORMALS CLASH WITH WINONA IN OPENING GAME

Dr. Sputh Puts His Men Through Last Work Before the Start of 1915 Season

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 the normal will line up for its initial game of the 1915 season with the Winona normal. A hard contest is anticipated. No shift has been made in the local line-up as given out by Dr. Sputh, so a team all members of which have been working together continually will face the Winona aggregation, whose men have been shifted about somewhat of late. The normal band will turn out in full strength for the first time to impart pep to the combat.

Officials have been selected. Professor Harry Spence of La Crosse, popular on the gridiron, will referee, so a game free from linguistic controversies is expected. Mr. F. W. Moore of Winona will umpire and

Dr. M. A. Carty, also of La Crosse, will act in the capacity of head linesman.

Dickman, right half for the visitors, will be remembered as the big center of the Winonans' basketball team of last season. Stirneman, his running mate, is a W. H. S. star and a Culver man, and Moran at right guard hails as a Chicago star. It remains to be seen whether Strum's warriors can successfully cope with stars of this calibre.

The line-ups for tomorrow's game as given out by Coaches Sputh and Abram of Winona are as follows:
La Crosse. Position. Winona.
Bruha r. e. Buswell
Jackson r. t. Flannery
La Fromboise r. g. Moran
Taylor c. Baumgarten
Marcou l. g. Wheeler
Wachter l. t. Katowski

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Frankie Gibbons, local bantam amateur champion, lost his title last night when he was bested by Willie Finley in a four round bout.

Starting "Good Times" on Its Merry Journey

Every new sale made by the merchants of this city is a move towards better times.

Each sale, small in itself, multiplies with the increasing business in other cities and starts factory wheels going.

More people are employed, more raw material is needed, more money rushes for investment, and before anyone knows how or why it happened we are all busy and happy.

Newspaper Window Display Week will help prosperity's wheels to turn.

It will increase the sales of the stores.

It will induce manufacturers to do more newspaper advertising and make still more business.

Our merchants are interested, for they naturally want this newspaper to carry more national advertising that keeps them busy.

It is always to the interest of retailers to push the goods advertised in their home newspapers—for these are the goods their customers want to see.

As an object lesson the week of October 11-16th has been set aside by leading newspapers of the United States and Canada as International Newspaper Window Display Week.

During next Week Merchants Are Requested to Display in Their Windows, Standard Products of National Distribution Advertised in this Newspaper. Join the Movement!

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Bethlehem Steel and Crucible Steel led today's opening in the stock market, "Beth" opening at 45 1/2, up 2 1/2 and a new high record, with Crucible Steel at 94 1/2, a 3 point advance. Other "war stocks" and railroad issues were strong. General Motors opened up 7 1/2 at 344.

Prices were easier in the second hour, although the volume of trading was large. Westinghouse sold at 135 1/2 after touching 136 1/2 and Bethlehem dropped sharply to 450 from the high of 459.

First trading in the new Anglo-French 5 per cent bonds was $10.000 at 98. They were listed today on the New York Stock exchange.

The Great Northern Ore at 50 1/2 was a strong feature. Trading continued brisk during the second hour and around noon prices were firm.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Money on call, 1 1/2 per cent; time money, 2 1/2 to 3 per cent for six months; prime mercantile, 3 and 3 1/2 per cent.

Bar silver, London, 23 15-16d; New York, 49 1/2c.

Potatoes—Receipts 35 cars; Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin, 55 to 60c.

Chicago Grain Market

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—All grains were sharply lower today following yesterday's crop prospectus report which estimated a yield far in excess of anything this country has previously produced.

Wheat at the opening showed over night recessions of 1 1/2c and 1 3/4c. Later in the day at 102 1/2 and 103 1/4, the prices represented recessions below the opening of 1 1/2c and 2 1/4c.

Corn was down 1/4c and 1/2c at the opening. Continued selling caused further recessions later.

Oats acted with other grains. Provisions were higher on reduced receipts.

WAR ODDITIES

LONDON—That King George is human was strikingly illustrated on his latest visit to the wounded in a London hospital.

Passing through a ward, the king asked a wounded "Tommy" how he was.

"They feed us like cattle," answered the soldier.

"You don't mean they feed you on hay?" was the king's immediate rejoinder.

When the "Tommy" recovered speech the king was gone.

ALL INDIANA DOES HONOR TO HOOSIER POET OF NATURE

James Whitcomb Riley Is Guest at Banquet at Which Notables Are Present

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 8.—When James Whitcomb Riley climbed out of bed in the second floor of his roomy, old-fashioned brick house deep in the shadows of dreamy old Lockerbie street Thursday, he found all Hoosierdom howling and scraping at him in smiling recognition of his 62nd year's beginning.

Lockerbie street is a little rustic village highway, with rambling old trees and battered brick walks lining its dusty ribbon of road. Riley never wanted it improved. He had to write a poem of just how he felt about it to keep the councilmen from fixing it all up. His other protests went unheeded, but the poem saved the day; and this instant, though the modern city sweeps in macadam lines and skyscraped visage out in all directions from it, Lockerbie street is still, and doubtless will remain—just Lockerbie street.

Not far over the hills from the city lies the Little Town o' Tail Holts, and a few miles further on is Th' Old Swimmin' Hole. On country roads down through the state you might, if you searched right well, find cross-roads' signs, merchants' legends daubed on rough boards, relics of those long-gone days when Jimmy Riley rambled over the hills and far away.

Today the world bows to James Whitcomb Riley, "The Hoosier Poet," and a genial smile such as no one in the world but Riley ever could concoct, wreathes his great big, boyish old face and—well, it just all seems mighty good.

Children in every township of ninety-two counties recited Riley poems and heard stories of the man whose fame has overtaken him while he yet lives.

Indianapolis was the gathering place of thousands of Riley's admirers. Notable men of letters came far from all directions to honor nature's poet.

A busy day was outlined for Riley. Some doubt was expressed that he could follow the program without severely taxing his strength, which has broken in recent years. Yesterday morning Riley visited schools here where the children had been drilled in many pretty honors to him. Riley made no secret of the fact that he treasured the tribute paid him by the children.

Favorite Riley poems were for the first time interpreted in dancing and music. A the Murat theater "An Afternoon With Riley" was produced quite ambitiously. "Little Orphan Annie," "The Circus Day Parade" and other favorites were interpreted by young women of the social set.

The banquet at the Claypool in the evening in Riley's honor was representative. Four hundred invitations were sent out.

The list of speakers included William Allen White of Emporia, Kan., who will tell of "The Day We Celebrate;" John H. Finley, commissioner of education of the state of New York; George Ade; Young E. Allison of Louisville; Albert J. Beveridge; Senator John W. Kern; Vice President Thomas E. Marshall; Elery Sedwick, editor of Atlantic Monthly and Col. George Harvey. Charles Warren Fairbanks was toastmaster.

Riley had been hoping for lots of sunlight and high temperature. This, he said, has been a most outrageous summer. "I haven't been able to get up a perspiration but twice," for Riley dislikes cold weather. He spends his winters in Florida. He is not writing now either for the hand that served him so well so long is "mullish."

"And poems can't be dictated you know."

However, he did write a new poem and read it last night.

arrival of a new grandson. Mr. and Mrs. Vern Kimball of Cleveland, O., have a ten pound boy.

Mrs. Shaw who has been visiting her son, Mr. Charles Shaw, left on Thursday for her home in Florida.

Mrs. E. D. Smith left Friday for Mason City, Iowa. He made the trip by auto.

Mrs. J. Johnston and Mrs. Will Bright left Tuesday for Milwaukee and Sheboygan.

Mrs. Cyril Holmes and Mrs. Tierney spent Tuesday in La Crosse.

Mrs. W. Wooster of Winona was the guest of Mrs. S. M. Stangl on Wednesday.

Mrs. Ray Trowbridge enjoyed a visit from her mother, Mrs. Gooden of Galesville Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Mary Ingalls spent Wednesday in town.

Mrs. E. L. Lane was the guest of Mrs. Frank Shappe of Centerville on Wednesday.

Mrs. F. M. Winters left Wednesday for Burlington, Wis., for a few days.

Mrs. Charles Bort of Sterling, Ill., is the guest of Mrs. Grace Bemis.

Mrs. Albert Hober-ton of Greeley, Colorado, is visiting friends and relatives.

Mrs. Merton Utter is visiting relatives in Coin, Iowa.

Mrs. Charles Thomas, who has been confined to her bed the past week is up and about again.

The ball game between West Salem and Trempealeau resulted in favor of Salem, 9 to 10.

Held at State Normal

Students in the normal model school and two members of the faculty rendered a pleasing program Thursday in commemoration of the sixty-third birthday of the Indiana child-poet, James Whitcomb Riley.

The youngsters brought out in a strong true light Riley's characteristics, his love for child-life, and his insight into the more common everyday things of life, the costumes of the entertainers making their readings much more effective. Prof. D. O. Coate opened the program very opportunely by giving the most important facts in Riley's life, explaining how he advanced from a ne'er-do-well to the present day poet that he is, and stating that this simple unaffected man with his verses was for a long time considered the greatest one man entertainer in this country. The latter fact was verified to a large extent by the following program:

James Whitcomb Riley, Prof. D. O. Coate.

"Gibbsby's Station," "Old Glory," Miss Bessie Hutchinson.

"The Raggedy Man," Carl Norbeck.

"Granny," Margaret Bennett.

"The Bear Story," Dorothy Westby.

"Little Orphan Annie," Margery Lewis.

Each reader was assisted by a corps of five or six classmates. Little Marion Packman acted as announcer.

The program was in charge of Miss Ethel Robson of the model school faculty. Prof. D. O. Coate, and Miss Bessie Hutchinson.

LIQUOR QUESTION UP

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 8.—The liquor question loomed up large today in the Louisiana gubernatorial contest, which got under way last night, and the candidates, three democrats, and John M. Harker, progressive, were making stands on prohibition and local option.

It is fortunate for the young husband that he is unable to see his wife as his mother sees her.

DIVORCE ACTIONS STARTED IN COURT

Wedded for twenty years, Mrs. Mary Weiss yesterday started divorce action in circuit court against her husband, William Weiss, through her attorney, Clark L. Hood. Mrs. Weiss claims she and her husband have been separated for five years.

Mrs. Clara Jansky alleges in a complaint filed with the court today asking for separation, that her husband often stood her against the wall and choked her, and that he knocked her down at other times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Capital district teachers today completed their four-lesson course in the state-inaugurated campaign to conquer illiteracy, arranged and directed by State Educational Commissioner Finley. Effective means of teaching foreign-born English and civic knowledge was the purpose.

Women! It's Easy!
Dry Clean With Gasoline—Save $5

Nothing shrinks, fades or wrinkles and a wash boiler will do nicely.

Women here who have tried dry cleaning find it very easy and inexpensive to clean and freshen all the ribbons, silks, satins, laces, yokes, furs, silk shirtwaists, kid gloves and shoes, neckties, children's clothes, suits, caps, Swiss, lawn, organdie and chiffon dresses, woolen garments, fancy vests, draperies, rugs, in fact, any and everything that would be ruined with soap and water.

Get two ounces of solvite at any drug store and put it in two gallons of gasoline, where it instantly dissolves, then put in the goods to be cleaned, rub a little and out they come, looking as bright and fresh as new. You will find nothing fades, shrinks or wrinkles, requiring no pressing.

You can do five dollars' work of home dry cleaning in an hour at little cost. It is so easy and you can't make a mistake. Any grocery or garage will supply the gasoline and you can obtain two ounces of solvite at the drug store which is simply a gasoline soap, then a wash boiler or large dishpan completes your dry cleaning outfit.
